Demand Foreseen for 6,600 Additional Housing Units by 1975

Good housing for people who need housing most, and a range of choice in different kinds (and costs) of housing.

Those are the two broad goals announced this week by the Housing Sub-Committee of the Princeton Regional Planning Board after months of meetings in which members digested the mass of charts and figures in the Sternlieb Report. (Copies of the report are at the library and municipal buildings.)

"But we don't want a CITY — and this is not to be housing for people who are getting a little tired of Park Avenue and think it would be amusing to have a weekend place in Princeton!" said Norman Williams, Planning Board member who was the first chairman of the sub-committee. He's still on the committee, but Mrs. Golda Gottlieb is now chairman.

The amount of demand is beyond anything Princeton could ever absorb, Mrs. Gottlieb and Mr. Williams point out. A "sensitive estimate" in the Sternlieb report says there will be a demand for 6,597 additional housing units by 1975 from people who are employed in Princeton.

There are now about 8,000 units, so the 6,597 figure represents an increase of close to 90%.

"There is a delicate piece of balancing involved here," Mr. Williams' comments, "and a helluva lot of detail work ahead. We want balance: a genuine contribution from the town where we have responsibility, but no messing-up of the town so that nobody will enjoy it."

"How far does the Planning Board's responsibility go?" Mrs. Gottlieb reflects. "Responsibility to Princeton and to the area? It's a question of values . . ."

For the moment, the housing group has two proposals, narrowed down from the two broad goals.

The group proposes the "encouragement" of Planned Residential Neighborhoods, plus the remodeling of older houses to incorporate apartments. Also, because the open market can't provide moderately-priced housing, the town should encourage state or Federally-assisted housing for at least four groups of people: Princeton residents, public employees, people forced out of town by economic pressure and non-residents who work here.

Planned Residential Unit might be built on plots of about 25 acres — in the Township, obviously — and they would include a mix of townhouses, apartments and single-family units.

Instead of using lot sizes as a measuring-stick, PRU would employ the floor-area ratio. Owners could use allowed floor area for several small units instead of one big house; Open space would also be provided.

The scheme is similar to cluster development, except that it offers a mix of housing styles and higher density. Overall density would, in a way, be averaged out.

Such Neighborhoods might be included in an amended Master Plan to show potential developers that Princeton welcomes the PRU approach. The developer would probably have to be a large-scale commercial developer from outside Princeton. No local commercial developer could handle such projects, according to Hans K. Sander, Planning Board chairman.

One possibility, he suggests, would be a PRN project financed 10% by a developer and 90% by money from, say, a Federal agency for low-income housing or the New Jersey Housing Finance Agency.

What about the Borough?

"There's more land in the Borough than you think," Mr. Sander says. He counts the 76 units approved for Harrison Street and Hamilton Avenue over a year ago and not yet built, and the low-middle-income units still on the boards in the Borough for Princeton Community Housing.

The housing sub-committee estimates at least ten acres in Borough parking lots, and they say hopefully that land as valuable as this won't sit for ten years in black-top. Why not in garage-apartment-shop establishments? Traffic is the real

PARKING HOTLY DEBATED

At Council Meeting. Nothing races the blood of Princeton residents like a good rousing confrontation on parking and traffic, and so it was on Tuesday night in Borough Hall.

Mayor and Council had invited people to come and talk about Council's proposal to move some more all-day meters from central parking lots to outlying streets, replacing them with short-term meters. Employees would then walk in to work, and shoppers could use the short meters.

"The Chamber of Commerce endorses this completely," stated its president, Jack Yeoman.

"A very bad plan!" protested Oskar Morgenstern, 94 Library Place, and that's the way it went, for more than two hours.

Mayor Robert W. Cawley kept explaining that the plan was a short-term remedy only, and that Council hadn't actually made a firm decision anyway—that's why people were invited to come and express their views.

Stop-Gap? "You're just postponing a real solution," protested William Krause, 104 Library Place. He told Council that his firm, Systemedics, had to move out of 20 Nassau and into Montgomery Township because employees had such trouble finding parking places.

"It took a $15 monthly salary premium for each employee to get our people to work in 20 Nassau," he told Council, adding, "The road to Montgomery Township is paved with Princeton parking tickets."

Employees of his firm would have used a jitney service, he said without hesitation. Such a service would provide transportation into the center of town from outlying parking lots, perhaps those owned by All Saints Church, the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, Friends Meeting, the Unitarian Church and similar organizations, similarly located on arteries leading into town.

THE DINKY IN BLOOM: Not quite, maybe, but at least the station platform. The Contemporary Garden Club has planted chrysanthemums in terracotta tubs donated by Squibb, and as the seasons move along, holiday greens will replace the mums and spring flowers will bloom in place of the greens. Mrs. Lucien Yokana holds the watering can and Mrs. Samuel Tattersall Jr. examines a blossom.

"It's hard to convince people that jitneys will work," Councilman Alice Male said gloomily to Mr. Krause. She said she hoped for such service in about two months. The Joint Borough-Township Transportation Committee had run into some problems, she said, including demands for payment by organizations that own the parking lots, the cost of buses and drivers and so on.

She also told Mr. Krause that the committee is negotiating with Mercer Metro for bus service around town, hoping it can start before the end of the year.

Keep Out? Dr. Morgenstern stated flatly that it was wrong to lure more people to Princeton for shopping by installing more short-term meters. "In London or New York, they are keeping cars OFF streets and AWAY from town, and you are bringing them in!"

He expressed alarm about the possible number of all-day parkers who would move onto Library Place once all-day meters are installed on Stockton Street, and he charged that the present two-hour parking limit on nearby Boudinot St. is not enforced.

Mrs. Frances Yokana, 86 Stockton, said employees of Princeton firms would meter-feed the short meters, rather than walk in from meters on more distant streets.

Mr. Krause, who warmed to his objections as the evening progressed, declared that Chamber of Commerce endorsement of the meter change was an irony, considering that "a group of merchants for 30 years hasn't been able to force any action to solve these problems!"

A Jitney in Your Future. Councilman John Strange said jitneys were probably the most economical long-range solution, and Mayor Cawley said that both jitney service and parking garages might not be very far away in time.

Councilman Charles Cornforth estimated 100 more parking slots "if the University would enforce its own staff and student parking requirements." When Dr. Morgenstern expostulated, "Put some pressure on the University!" Mr. Cornforth replied, "Who has the best idea for that one?"

Mr. Strange gave a lurid description of ways people beat the police's tire-marking system, chiefly by rubbing off chalk marks no matter where police hide them.

When Mr. Strange hinted at a new and secret police way of marking cars, Mr. Cornforth suggested that the meter attendant use a tape-recorder and simply walk along a row of cars, recording the last digits of each license number. The attendant could walk along the curb at intervals, playing back the tape and checking the numbers for overtime parkers.

Rental Inspection. Council's proposals to beef up the rental unit inspection ordinances of 1964 and 1967 were adjourned until the meeting of November 9.

Mr. Strange explained that the Board of Health has been asked to consider amendments involving the inspection of University, Choir College and Seminary dorms and apartments, hotels and transient units. There is also a question of whether to continue using the health officer as the inspector or transferring this function.

The University has suggested that current state inspection and registration regulations for institutional units may be enough. "The amendments will probably reduce the number of units to be inspected by the Borough," Mr. Strange said, "we'll probably exclude everything that comes under the state."

Douglas Corlette, 220 Snowden, asked why the ordinance was needed, and Mayor Cawley explained that it was to assure tenants of a safe and healthy place to live.

"Is that the responsibility of the community?" Mr. Corlette asked. When Edward Schneier, 100 Jefferson Road, said that in campaigning this fall for the mayor's job he has found tenants who complain that they cannot get a landlord to make needed repairs, Mr. Corlette said "Can't the tenants move?"

Bond Issues Supported. Replying to a request from Princeton University President Robert F. Goheen, Council passed by 3-1 vote, a resolution urging bi-partisan support inhibitor, Mr. William warns.

Housing Needs Surveyed

Regarding conversions—that is permission to convert a house legally into small apartments—the Township's own Planning Board is now engaged in working out zoning amendments to allow these conversions.

In the Borough, the Borough Zoning Committee of the Planning Board would take on the question. It's regarded as a knotty and thorny problem in the Borough, because of such matters as yard requirements.

Up-Keep a Problem. Another difficult problem is up-keep. Many homeowners do not keep their homes in repair because they are afraid improvements will mean higher taxes. Mrs. Gottlieb points out that some towns give tax abatement for improvements. Federal programs offer either outright grants, or low-interest loans for improvements. The board may explore these, she said.

Exactly how many more housing units will the Planning Board recommend?

The committee is still working to refine that figure, Mrs. Gottlieb reports. She notes that completion of Princeton Community Housing's 240 Township units and the University's 200 units—reportedly to be constructed by Herbert Kendall of Kendall Park—will bring into sharper focus the remaining need in Princeton.

While frustrated home-seekers look with hope at the Sternlieb Report and subsequent planning Board recommendations, the board itself has a view in another dimension.

Mr. Williams, who has written a study of exclusionary zoning, predicts a major court test before long, with a decision prohibiting towns from any kind of zoning that excludes one socio-economic group or another. Princeton is now in a strong position in this regard, he believes.

Contradictory Figures. Confirmations and contradictions emerge from the Sternlieb survey. Mrs. Gottlieb says she was surprised how few teachers, police and so on, said they wanted to live in Princeton.

"I had always thought there were more," she says, "and I'm not sure I'm quite satisfied with the data."

Because Princeton has an unusually large number of young people and an unusually large number of the very old, the most important kind of housing demand is for small units."

In coming years, 22 percent of present households expect to re-shape into smaller units. A shortage of these small units is already apparent, and will probably increase.

"To the extent that University students move off-campus," the housing committee notes, "the problem will become that much worse."

Soaring Costs. The most important single factor in the current strong housing demand has been the expansion of employment in Borough Township and adjoining Townships, the report finds. This demand has driven up the price of houses so that the median price of new housing is double what it was ten years ago.

What this means is that most newcomers to the town are wealthy. Princeton is therefore moving away from an integrated, heterogeneous community to a wealthy, homogeneous white community.

The Planning Board will continue to ponder these generalities and specifics in the months ahead. Lot size, density figures, possible public hearings on changing both the Borough and Township Master Plans; possible consideration of a single Princeton Community Master Plan—all these are on a long and continuing agenda.

for two bond issues on the November ballot: Green Acres funds and money for state colleges.

Mr. Cornforth voted "no" because he doesn't believe Council should encourage a voter to support anything or anyone on any ballot.

Drugs. Council and Township Committee have scheduled a meeting for this Wednesday afternoon with the drug group headed by Len Brown, Jerry Saunders and Bill Kight (see last week's TOWN TOPICS).

Mayor Cawley said that no co-ordinating committee on drug abuse would be named until this meeting has taken place.

To Float Bonds. Council agreed to go into the bond market with $430,000 in municipal bonds, to be repaid over an eight-year period. The money will pay for such items as the new fire truck and the compactor at the incinerator. Many purchases covered by the bond issue have already been paid for through short-term notes or bookkeeping maneuvers, Mr. Cornforth said.

All three fire companies have passed "equal opportunity" statements and have declared their willingness to accept members from minority groups, reported Councilman Joseph Moore, who is Fire Commissioner.

Mayor Cawley said Council will communicate directly with young men who might want to join the companies.

A plan to involve the municipality in re-cycling will be discussed next week by the Joint Sewer Operating Committee, Mr. Strange reported.

GIRL DIES SUDDENLY
Death Attributed to Allergy. Two pathologists have attributed the sudden death of Princeton High School senior Jacqueline Grey last Wednesday to "an allergy or sensitivity" to medication that was given just prior to her death.

Miss Grey, 16-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jerry Grey, 61 Adams Drive, died at 6:20 a.m. in the acute division of Princeton Hospital — about 20 minutes after she had been given medication at Princeton House, the hospital's new mental health and drug treatment center two miles away on Route 206. She had been admitted to Princeton House two days earlier.

Dr. H. Yale Tyler, a private pathologist who performed the autopsy at the request of the family, was quoted as saying that the girl's death was not the result of a drug overdose. Dr. David A. Fluck, deputy county medical examiner, who also examined the body, agreed with Dr. Tyler's findings.

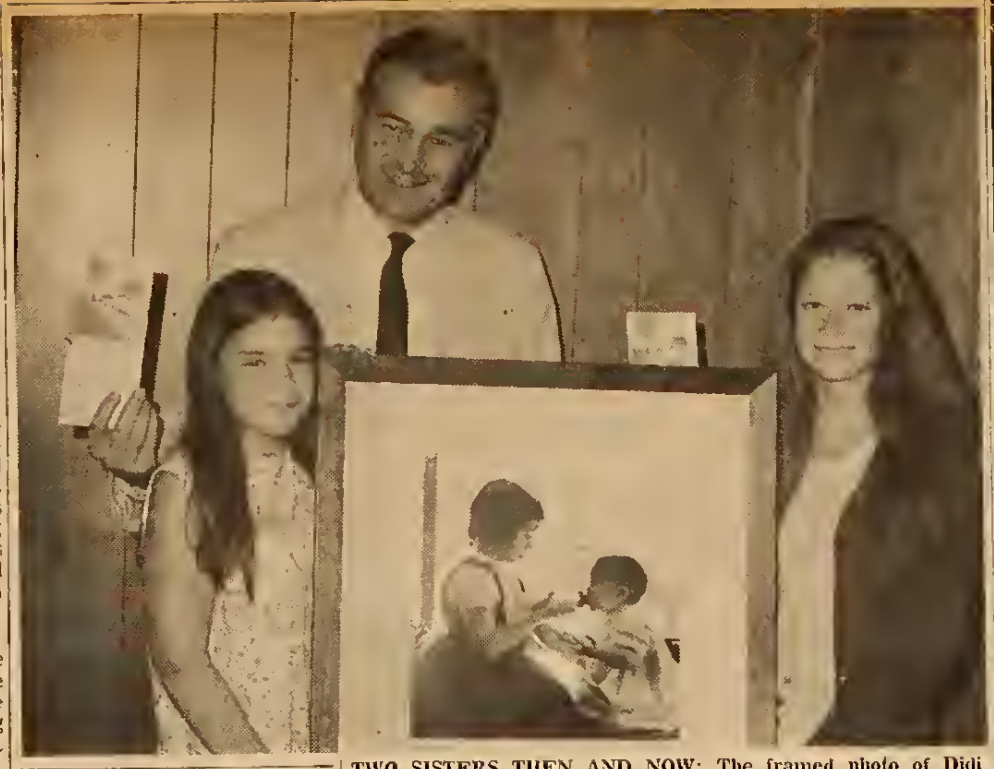
In addition, Dr. Fluck is conducting a toxological investigation. Results of these tests, he said, would not be available for three weeks. He declined to reveal what medicines were given to the victim at Princeton House just before her death or what they were for.

The police investigation of her death is being conducted by Towaship Ptl. Michael Kopliner. Chief Frederick Porter, who reported that police routinely investigate any sudden death, declined to make any comments.

An accomplished horsewoman, Miss Grey was born in Newark and had lived in Princeton for the past 10 years. She worked at the Meadow Mouse Stables on Cherry Hill Road and was reportedly in training for the United States Equestrian trials.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by a sister Leslie at home; her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Rae Hoffman of Orange; and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Lillian Greenberg of Brooklyn. Her father is an associate professor at Princeton University.

The funeral was held in Irvington.



TWO SISTERS THEN AND NOW: The framed photo of Didi and Carol Magers taken many years ago has been used as the cover picture on the brochure, People Helping People, the United Fund directory of services and agencies. Didi is 17 now and a student at Hopewell Valley Regional High School. Her sister, 11, attends Stuart Country Day. With them is Leslie L. Vivian Jr., campaign chairman for the Princeton Area United Community Fund.

HOSPITAL PLANS CLINIC
For Methadone Maintenance. Princeton Hospital will begin immediate negotiations with the State's Narcotic Addiction and Drug Abuse Program for the establishment of a Methadone maintenance clinic in the Hospital's out-patient department. It is proposed that the clinic will function as a satellite of the State's Trenton clinic and will be staffed solely by State personnel.

Princeton Hospital's Medical and Dental Staff, through its Department of Psychiatry, has been investigating and studying the matter of a Princeton-based Methadone Clinic for more than two years. Hospital Medical Staff and Administrative representatives have met in preliminary discussions with State officials in recent weeks to consider the founding of such a clinic.

It is the belief of the Hospital's Board of Trustees, Medical and Dental Staff and Administration that the community will best be served by a satellite clinic operating at Princeton Hospital under State auspices. All persons eligible for treatment at the Hospital's clinic must first be screened and referred to the Princeton clinic by the main clinic at Trenton.

Specific information relating to opening date, hours of operation, staffing patterns and patient volume will be available following joint State-Hospital negotiations which will begin this week.

ABOUT THAT BOTTLE . . .
No Decision Yet. Conservationists want a ban-the-bottle ordinance, brewers and soda-pop people don't.

It took three hours-plus in Borough Hall Saturday to hear it said all over again while Borough Council listened patiently, in a continuation of the public hearing on the Borough's proposed ban-the-bottle ordinance.

No decision will be made until the Borough talks it over with Township Committee. Representatives of Committee were there Saturday, too. Action may be taken at Council's November 9 meeting.

Mrs. Stanton Waterman, of Princeton's Conservation Coalition and a prime mover in conservation and ecological matters, demanded proof that container companies had spent as much money on advertising the returnable as the non-returnable bottle.

"It isn't the public that has demanded these bottles," she declared.

She said that some bottling companies have kept their returnable equipment and would not be hurt economically by a ban-the-bottle measure.

But the representative of the Mid-Atlantic District of the United States Brewers Association, expressed "the extreme concern of the entire brewing industry" over ban-the-bottle proposals, and he warned of economic effects on Princeton businesses.

He expressed approval of recycling, and said he hopes the Princeton municipality takes on re-cycling before long.

Topics Of The Town

This tart comment came Monday night from Township Planning Board Chairman Hans K. Sander as board member John D. Wallace urged his colleagues to re-open the question of office buildings in the Service zones.

In the end, it was chairman Sander who cast the tie-breaking vote by saying "yes," let's go back and re open the whole thing.

Among the seven members present, Mr. Wallace, Joseph R. Nini and Gerald Breese voted "yes" on re-opening, and Mayor James A. Floyd, Golda Gottlieb and Abbot L. Moffat voted "no."

Last week, Mr. Wallace introduced a Township Committee ordinance which would have put office buildings back into the Service Zones. It was voted down. Mr. Wallace has been protesting the elimination of office buildings from the new zoning amendments in Service Zones on Alexander Street and the upper part of Mt. Lucas-Route 206.

Specifically, Mr. Wallace would like to have North Square back again. The new amendments, by eliminating office buildings, eliminate North Square.

Missing Scenery

The Ides of October
Are looming ahead —
I wish they would bring us
Some yellow and red.

The record-breaking amount of rainfall we have had since late August, topping off an adequate supply earlier, has resulted in a greatly-delayed display of fall foliage. Leaves are green far longer than normal, and there is always a risk that a windy, rainy day will bring many of them down before they turn.

Showers are a Wednesday night or Thursday morning possibility, the Man said, with skies generally clearing thereafter. He even held out hope for a weekend without rain — and that would be the first since before Labor Day.

Insufficient Warning. Mr. Wallace has charged, at Township Committee last week and at the vote on the amendment on September 20, that not enough notice was given to let people know the office building provision was coming to a vote.

The Township Planning Board discussed at length Monday night exactly when and at how many meeting the office building question was discussed.

Mr. Sander reminded the board that in June, everyone had agreed to hard-drive all summer on two projects: housing and the Office-Research, Service and Business zones. He cited five meetings when he said these questions were discussed at length. Mr. Wallace, who departed early from the final meeting when the vote was taken to eliminate offices, implied that he had been assured there would be no vote in his absence.

Mr. Nini explained that he had voted to eliminate office buildings because he felt the town needed services like lumber-yards and warehouses. He feared that increasing values might mean this land was "gobbled up" for uses like office buildings, and needed community services wiped out.

Mr. Wallace protested that hotels and motels — permitted under the new zoning law — would force out these small retail firms, but Mr. Sander said he didn't think hotels and motels would "proliferate" the way office buildings might.

Mr. Sander pointed out that Office - Research, Shopping Center and both Business zones allow offices. Office space in the Service Zones, he calculated, would amount to only 10% of the land actually set aside for such use.

Other Matters Coming Up. The board has Residential Zones and private schools yet to go on its agenda for revising the municipality's Zoning Ordinances. But Mr. Sander said he hopes to re-open and re-close the Service Zone question before the end of the year.

He explained that he voted to consider it all once again because the first time, letters were sent only to residents of the area and neighbors who were on record as being interested in the question. A new go-round would include everyone in the service neighborhoods, he said. This will include one owner (Philip Golden) who couldn't enlarge his office building under the new law, and one (William Bucci) who wouldn't be allowed to build at all under the amendment passed last month.

The board, in executive session Monday, talked about allowing roomers in Township homes to relieve home-owners who find taxes a financial burden. No action was taken.

The board hopes to discuss Service Zones October 27 and hold a public meeting on the subject in November.

TO NAME COMMITTEES

On Government and Noise. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley announced Tuesday that he will appoint, probably next week and certainly before Election Day, two new citizens committees.

One, a Public-Government Relations committee, will explore ways to increase attendance at municipal meetings, improve the average citizen's understanding of the way government runs, and show citizens how they can influence policy and help municipal government get along.

The second, with a more technical charge, will be asked to look over the Borough's present anti-noise ordinance to see whether more things around town can't be soft-pedaled.

The current ordinance is based on sound-presures levels. The Borough has no measurement devices of its own, and must run down to Trenton to borrow the state's equipment whenever a loud noise needs measuring.'

This equipment, observed Mayor Cawley, doesn't react to loud voices at 3 a.m. from next-door neighbors. More up-to-date laws may be needed, he said, and the emphasis will be on getting a specific ordinance that's easy to enforce. The police will probably be the enforcing agents, he said.

The first committee will have half a dozen citizen members, plus the Borough Administrator and one Councilman. The second committee will have four or five citizens with technical know-how, working with representatives of the Borough police and engineering departments.

Mayor Cawley said he would appoint broadly representative groups, with all ranges represented.

Consolidation Easier?

Consolidation of New Jersey's 14 hole-and-doughnut towns — two of which are Princeton Borough and Township — will be recommended in December by the County and Municipal Government Study Commission.

This report wants to make it easier to get a proposed consolidation study on the ballot. It proposes that a joint resolution by the two governing bodies involved be sufficient to get a referendum before the voters.

At present, consolidation can only go on the ballot after petition by 20% of the voters in each municipality.

ALJON'S HELD UP

By Armed Youth. A youth, armed with a pistol, held up and robbed two employees at Aljon's Sub Shop, 157 Witherspoon Street, last week as they were closing the store. He escaped with $226.

It was the second armed robbery in the Borough within a week. A few days earlier, a gunman, armed with a shotgun, took $900 from a clerk at the Jack & Jill store on Nassau Street.

According to police, the two employees, George Moss and Lew Dallenbach, both 18, had had just locked the front door of the small shop at 8:18 Thursday evening when a youth approached them with a gun in his hand.

"Give me your money," he demanded. When the two replied they didn't have any, he grabbed a briefcase from one and ran across Witherspoon Street and up an alley toward Bayard Lane. The two victims gave pursuit.

Fires One Shot. The suspect then turned around, police continued, warned them not to follow or he would shoot and at the same time fired one round from his pistol. The slug tore through the trousers of Mr. Dallenbach, just missing his leg.

Police, called to the scene by the victims, responded with three patrol cars. A search of the area failed to uncover the suspect.

He was described as black, in his 20s, husky, about 185 pounds, between 5-8 and 5-11, wearing a ski cap. A composite drawing of the suspect has been made by Sgt. David Potts of the Township. Borough Detective Anthony Ranfone is continuing the investigation.

TWO ARE CHARGED

In Alcohol Violation. Borough police have charged two Princeton area residents in connection with the purchase and sale of an alcoholic beverage to a minor.

John R. Brindley, 23, of Kingston has been charged with violating a Borough ordinance that prohibits the purchase of alcoholic beverages for a minor. The recipient, James C. Attenborough, 19, 799 Princeton-Kingston Road, has been charged as a minor in possession of alcohol. Both face a hearing in Borough court Wednesday afternoon.

According to Lt. Michael Carnevale, the transaction was witnessed Friday at 11:55 a.m. by Ptl. Victor Fasanella.

News Of The THEATRES

"FIDDLER" FOR P.J.&B.

In December. It's never happened before, which isn't to say it won't happen again, but for the first time in the 12-year history of P.J.&B. productions, the annual musical will be one that's still running on Broadway.

"Fiddler on the Roof" is the choice. Under the direction of Milton Lyon, it will be given at McCarter Theatre five times, starting Thursday, December 9 and ending Sunday, December 12 with a matinee. That fifth performance is a "first," too. Normally, P.J.&B. casts perform only four times.

Everyone is welcome to try out. P.J.&B. productions are for amateurs, semi-pros and pros, and previous experience isn't necessary. More than 1,000 people in the Princeton area have been in P.J.&B. productions over the past 11 years.

Auditions will be held for principals, cast and chorus at McCarter on Saturday, October 30 from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 and 1:30 to 5:30. Sunday auditions have been scheduled for 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 7:30 in the evening until 10:30

Dancers will audition separately, on Sunday, October 31 from 7:30 to 9 p.m., also at McCarter.

Those trying out are asked to call McCarter, 921-8700 to arrange for a specific audition time.

"Fiddler on the Roof" is based on the traditional Sholom Aleichem stories about Teyve and his daughters. The musical, by Jerry Bock and Sheldon Harnick, will soon pass its 3,000th performance in New York (it overtook "My Fair Lady" this summer as longest-running musical), and it is scheduled to open in early November in a film version.

DRAMA, AT PHS

Students Have "Council." A "Super Council" to advise Princeton High School drama students has been established at PHS by Lawrence A. Mansier, drama director.

The Council consists of five students with previous theatre experience who will be responsible for different aspects of production. The idea is to give high school drama a more professional touch, while still allowing enough room for learning.

Anyone — teachers or students — with an idea for a production, must present it to the Council. When the idea is actually in production, the Council will be a resource group, geared to give practical advice.

Set design and construction is under Robert Little (artistic manager); lighting, sound and special effects, Jim Weissenburger (technical manager); audience relations under Lauren Sarno (house manager) working with publicity, manager K. G. Hawthorne. David Werden is company manager.

The Council also expects to use skilled people within the high school community for jobs that don't necessarily involve the play itself. Richard Pardee, a student who has had experience in engraving and printing, will be in charge of advertisements and programs for high school productions.

ACTRESS DIRECTS

Brophy and "The Seagull." Sallie Brophy, director of the Princeton Community Players' production of Chekhov's "The Seagull," has a long list of theatre credits, starting with her graduation from the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London.

("The Seagull" will open November 12, playing again the 13 and 14 and the following weekend on November 18, 19 and 20, all in the Little Theatre of the Unitarian Church.)

After the Royal Academy, Miss Brophy toured during the summers in such plays as "Private Lives," "For Love or Money" and "Second Threshold."

She made her Broadway debut in Mary Martin's "Peter Pan," and afterward appeared in several films, including "Children's Hour" and "Storm Center."

Moving to television, she played a wide variety of roles, and had her own ABC series called "Buckskin."

She is the wife of George Goodman, who wrote "The Money Game" under the "Adam Smith" pseudonym.

"WHERE'S POPPAg" NEXT

At McCarter. Carl Reiner's "outrageous" 1970 comedy, "Where's Poppa?", described as both "offensive and hilarious, and not for every taste," will be shown at McCarter next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the International Film Series. The two principal roles are portrayed by George Segal, as a nice decent Jewish lawyer, and Ruth Gordon as his senile Mother who is continually thwarting both his professional career and his love life.

Director Reiner specializes in turning conventional attitudes inside out, and in having "insane" events occur logically. McCarter warns that much of the language in "Where's Poppa?" is deep blue.

Also on the program will be "Nixon's Checkers Speech," the original 1952 television document in which Nixon, then the Republican vice-presidential candidate, explained the circumstances surrounding a special fund which had been raised to assist his candidacy.

"Two and Only." Bob Elliott and Ray Goulding, sometimes called "the last true gentlemen of comedy," will bring their 1970-1971 Broadway comedy hit, "The Two and Only" to McCarter Theatre for four performances beginning next Thursday, October 21, and ending with a matinee on Sunday, October 24. Tickets are now available at McCarter box office.

Bob & Ray first came to national prominence in 1951 when NBC signed them to a radio and television contract. NBC featured them in 18 hours of radio time weekly, and a daily fifteen-minute television show.

Various "Bob and Ray" programs followed on several New York stations, along with stints on "Monitor" and the CBS network. The two are familiar guests on all the late-night talk shows, and recently appeared in the film "Cold Turkey."

Their efforts have earned them two Peabody Awards for humor, and their radio-television commercials, starting in 1955 with an eight-year run as the Piel Brothers, Bert and Harry) have also received numerous awards. They are currently on television as spokesmen for Skippy Peanut Butter.

The four performances at McCarter will use the original New York setting. The original lighting will be re-created by McCarter's Production Director, Ralph Bloom.

"BATTLE OF ALGIERS"

In Revival. Two showings of Gillo Pontecorvo's "Battle of Algiers" will be screened at McCarter this Friday at 7 and 9:30 p.m. rebellion against the French between 1954 and 1957. Although Pontecorio's sympathies are clearly with the rebels, he suggests that no one on either side can clearly be categorized as hero or villain. Single admissions for either screening will be available at the door.

THE PEOPLE PLAYERS

New Group is Christened. The company of young actors and technicians sponsored by the Creative Theatre for Youth has decided to call itself "The People Players."

First production for the Players will be the old French fable "Reynard the Fox," scheduled for two performances at John Witherspoon School on Saturday, November 6. Performances will be given at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

The Princeton Regional PTA-PTO has agreed to sponsor The People Players by providing publicity in the schools and arranging time for technical and dress rehearsals in school auditoriums.

The company is asking for donations to be used as "scholarships" so that no child will be unable to attend because of lack of funds. Donations will be accepted after the performances.

All members of The People Players will be in "Reynard," including cast, technical crew, house manager and ushers. Adult directors are Sharon Bown and Denise Schulz.

PLAYHOUSE

The Conformist (now playing) is a complex, erotic film made in Italy (English subtitles) based upon the Alberto Moravia novel. The setting is fascism in prewar Europe.

Flashbacks, surrealism and symbolism highlight Jean-Louis Trintignant's characterization of a confused but dedicated man. Stefania Sandrelli plays the part of his mindless, sexy wife, and Dominique Sanda acts the role of the married woman who loves them both.

GARDEN

The Film Festival continues this week: The Marx Brothers' "The Big Store" and "Day at the Circus" are double features scheduled this Wednesday through Saturday. Greta Garbo in "The Painted Veil" and "Susan Lenox" are set for Sunday through Tuesday.

PRINCE

Ryan's Daughter (now playing) is rooted in a remote village on the western coast of Ireland during World War I. The village is occupied by the British who are so hated by the natives that they hope the Germans will win the war.

Against this background is a love story, with Sarah Miles as Rosy Ryan, the tavern keeper's daughter, and Christopher Jones as the handsome British major in command of the troops. Rosy is ostracized and punished because the village believes she has betrayed the patriots.

The film is three hours long, divided into two parts. Directed by David Lean, it does not match his epic dramas, "Dr. Zhivago" and "Lawrence of Arabia." There are tense moments when Rosy is stripped by the villagers and shorn of her hair and during the long sequence showing the Irish rebels rescuing their boats and ammunition from the stormy sea with the help of the villagers. The moods of the sea are brilliantly evoked by photographer Fred A. Young, who also did the cinematography for "Lawrence" and "Zhivago."

THAT'S NOT MOMMY AND DADDY, FOR SURE: Mardi Gras heads steal the Halloween show at Zinder's, Nassau Street.

IT'S NEW To Us

RUBBER FEET

And Jokey Eyes. The air is getting crisp; the leaves are showing tints of red and gold--which means that Halloween is just a broomstick ride away.

Zinder's on Nassau Street is already piled with eerie and puckish fantasia. Skeleton finfers, Mardi Gras masks, and gray rubber feet.

You could go political this year and wear an elephant or a donkey mask as you do the rounds with the kids.

There are extremely realistic rubber masks that fit the face nearly like skin. The mouth even moves as you talk. Some of these masks have a fringe of natural-looking hair.

And, at the other end of the scale, Zinder's has those huge Mardi Gras heads that rest on the wearer's shoulders. Among them are a benign pirate, a clown, a leering witch and a jovial man.

Wigs come in every color and length. There are long tresses to braid or pony-tail, and short, curly lengths to wear under a battered bowler. Head gear, in fact, ranges from straw coolie hats and cowboy Stetsons to Daniel Boone coonskins and pirate hats.

There are bald pates - some with phony eyeglasses attached below the forehead, others with a bulbous nose. Nearby are eyeglasses with rolling eyeballs. And there's a whole shelf of rubber hands and feet - horny and floppy. (Choose sick green, or fever red or pasty gray.)

The horror masks are as wild as ever and Zinder's also has very realistic animal masks - a whole series that includes a cow, a pig, a chicken, Fido, a burro, a tiger, a gorilla and even a lion with a mane of fake hair.

The kids' costumes already outfitted with masks are imaginative and come in size 3 to 14. There are also adult size outfits - Gay 90's bathing suits, prison uniforms; long capes in black, or red or white; hula skirts, and even Japanese kimonos that can be worn as a house coat later.

Zinder's also has "Trick - Treat" lights for the kids to carry and an illuminated owl of orange plastic for your window.

GUILD OPENS

At 173 Nassau, Ellen and Joseph Squitieri have opened The Creative Guild on Nassau Street, where The Whole Earth used to be. It's a little gallery where a number of artists and craftsmen are represented.

Currently showing are Kaete Shaw with macrame and also pottery, Judith Neilson, pottery; Tom Wilson, stained glass and buckles; Rene Roy, stained glass Tiffany lamps and mobiles; John Reints, guitar; Judy Kaufman, jewelry; Roger Marin, slit drums; Elsie Poliack, watercolors and oil paintings; Harvey Parks and Ernest Calorio, oils.

Also available are Ellen Squitieri's soft leather bags and garments, and Joseph's belts and sandals of heavy leather. You'll see him, 6 ft 7" tall and bearded, at work at the leather bench when you go in. The Squitieri's have brought their crafts here from Provincetown.

"We work along with customer's ideas," Joseph said the other day. A Princeton native, he seems glad to be back in town. He has customers who bring in belts and browse for buckles, and others who bring in the silver and turquoise buckles they have bought in Mexico.

"People are really going belt crazy," he notes. He makes buckles himself, when he has time. Most are brass or silver.

You can also have all sorts of leather items repaired at The Creative Guild: saddles, harnesses, dog leashes, to name three.

Looking around the very neat little gallery, you see a chair made of steer horns -- which we doubt is for sale, it is so unusual. In the pottery section - deep bowls in earthy colors, mugs ($3); a sizeable pitcher ($6) and casseroles. The latter and bean pots can be made to your order. There are pottery goblets with a medieval air.

Among the rack of belts ($6 up) are both unusual and simple designs. The leather bags some great folds of leather to hang from your shoulder, others smaller and studded-- are about $25 up. Buy one to wear on your belt.

The macrame lampshade is a skilled creation. You can order the color you prefer. (about $20) Candles, too, may be made to order.

The Creative Guild also carries woodcuts, etchings and watercolors by Meryl Binder and Hedwin Gorsky's work in batik print, oil, charcoal, ink and pencil. There is hand-printed stationery by Sandy and Andy Baird and photographic studies by Edmund Kounitz.

The gallery is open from 10 until 6, officially. "It's hard to keep specific hours," Joseph Squitieri says, "because if we are here working, we usually let people in."

MEET MARTHE McKINNON

Interior Designer. Marthe McKinnon, formerly a designer with Bernard Cooke Associates, has just opened an office-showroom at 20 Thompson Court, on Nassau Street opposite Moore. Lively, blue-eyed and blond, she is bubbling with ideas and economies.

Her extremely varied training ranges from liberal arts at Vassar College (she left to get married); history at Hunter College (graduating with honors), the Parsons School of Design, the study of the fine art of furniture decorating as practiced by the Italians and the French.

The daughter of watercolorist Dagmar Tribble, she has inherited her mother's sensitivity to color and form. And she is prepared to continue the type of work she did with Cooke, ranging the whole gammut from traditional to contemporary homes and also contract designs for offices.

Mrs. McKinnon has an extensive fabric sample collection. "I must have over 1,000 samples hanging," she says. Aware of the appeal of the Scalamandre silks and the great designs from the French house of Brunschwig, she will show you their samples, which are the near ultimate in cost, and then tell you about Greeff in New York, "who are doing marvelous Americana in fabrics and wallpapers -- updated in the colorways, but you get a period feeling from them."

She will introduce the conservation-minded to Greeff's "Wildlife Collection." Royalties from the sale of fabrics from the collection go to the World Wildlife Fund to rescue threatened species. "The collection is well designed," Mrs. McKinnon comments. "It's not corny."

She has catalogues for the various furniture lines -- traditional things from Baker, very contemporary items from Stendig, Knoll, and Baker are also represented.

Mrs. McKinnon looks a little askance at Princeton prices for interior decorating services. "We're not THAT far from New York," she says and proposes to keep her prices down.

"Design to me is the only way to live," she comments on house furnishing. "One's environment effects one's mood and life. Color, pattern and line make everything so much more interesting.

"You look at nature -- and everything is designed. People should be able to have their house or apartment attractive at a price that they can afford...There's no need to spend thousands to get good design."

She considers changes to a house structure necessary when the house doesn't "work for the family." "If a house is not functional, no matter how elegant it is -- it's just no good."

Thinking of today's fabrics for drapes, slip covers and upholstery, she gets a little excited over Herculon for a couch that's used by the kids. "It wears well. It's casual, oriented to a family room.

"The new synthetic fabrics include some that look like silk -- but wear better. In fact, there's something for everybody."

A Princeton resident who's redecorating her own house when she finds time, she says of her customers, "I want people to feel that they are going to get good advice and assistance at a very reasonable price. We'll work out budgets."

The range Marthe McKinnon offers is from interior design for a whole house or office to helping select fabric for a slip cover. Her hours are 10 a.m. to 4 Monday through Friday by appointment, or drop in, she may be there. The phone is 921-9410.

backing her car out of the YWCA lot on Avalon Place.

Police, who declined to reveal her name, said that as the woman was backing out, a "tall teenager" opened her car door, grabbed her purse and ran off. It contained $1.50 and a check for more than $300. A police search of the area proved fruitless.

HOME IS ENTERED

On Harris Road. The home of Lothar Sander, 111 Harris Road, was entered and robbed Friday evening between 8:15 and 10:30.

Taken, police report, were a stereo amplifier and tape deck and a Princeton University athletic ticket book with a combined value of $469.29. Entry was through an unlocked front door. Pt. David G. Wilbur investigated.

Ptl. James Vandermark and the Township detective bureau are also investigating the entry earlier last week of the home of Gordon Griffin, 160 Leabrook Lane. Mr. Griffin is Township attorney.

According to police, intruders pried open a rear door and ransacked a master bedroom. "At this time, we don't know if anything was taken," commented Chief Frederick Porter.

MINOR FIRE CONTAINED

At John Witherspoon School. A minor fire at John Witherspoon Elementary School Friday afternoon burned a teacher's desk and melted plastic fluorescent light panels, but caused no structural damage.

A General Alarm sounded at 6:05 p.m. for the small blaze which occured in the D-wing of the school, which is used to accommodate the overflow from Princeton High School.

In a nearby room obscenities were scrawled on a blackboard and chalk pieces littered the floor, according to Township Police. However Chief Frederick M. Porter Jr. said he believed the cause of the fire was accidental not arson. Persons bent on arson would not have vandalized the other room. Patrolman John Hammond is continuing the investigation.

TWO PAY $15 FNES

For Careless Driviag. Two Princeton residents were fined $15 each in Borough court Monday for careless driving. Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. levied the fines against Thomas N. Thompson, 17, 611 Lake Drive, and Lloyd G. Wedderburn, 28, 32 Birch Avenue.

William G. Sayen, 23, 167 Edgerstoune Road, paid $30 for speeding. In addition, his license was revoked but Judge Tams left the duration up to the state's Motor Vehicle Department. Following too closely cost Sally R. Hughes, 47, 604 Princeton-Kingston Road, $15, while Lois C. Strayer, 68, 57 Balsam Lane, paid the same amount for a stoo sign infraction.

Two Princeton University students were fined $10 eacn for failing to walk on sidewalks where provided. They are Charles R. Biggs, 19, and Hamilton Candee II, 18, both of 111 Henry Hall.

In Township court last week, Judge Burton Peskin fined Russell R. McDonough, 17, River Road, Titusville, $20 for reckless driving.

Joanne T. Medlinsky, 41, 277 Snowden Lane paid $15 for disregarding a stop sign. Both pleaded guilty.

YOUTH IS FINED $30

For Marijuana Possession. In Borough criminal court last week, Dana K. Hayden, 20, of New Brunswick was fined $30 for possession of marijuana on Nassau Street. He pleaded guilty.

John Warat, 23, of Middlefield, Ohio, paid $45 after he pleaded guilty to being under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance. He was charged July 31.

Edward Hayes, 44, 20 Lytle Street, charged with assault by his sister, Christine, received a 15-day suspended jail sentence. Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr., however, placed him on six months probation with Borough court.

Assault charges lodged against Princeton University proctors Stephen Varish, 23, and Robert McDonald, 35, by Harold L. Humes were dismissed when the court was unable to locate Humes.

McCARTER YIELDS $1200

To Hiding Thief. A thief, who Borough police believe hid inside McCarter Theatre following Saturday night's production, stole $1,035 and an adding machine from the box office. The machine was valued at $165.

The cash was inside a small, 14-inch square safe which the thief removed. The investigation conducted by Sgt. Theodore Lewis indicates that the thief probably hid in the theatre when it closed for the evening on Saturday. The loss was discovered at 9:15 Monday morning.

The box office door had been forced open, police said.

POLITICS

In Township. Housing, taxes and business zoning occupied Township candidates this week.

On taxes, Committeeman Thomas Hartmann, running for re-election on the Democratic ticket, observed that 86% of the Township's tax dollar goes to schools (56%) and county (29%).

Of the remaining 14%, he said that "last year's small increase" was approved unanimously by Township Committee. Republicans and Democrats alike. Most of it, he added, was ear-marked for more effective law enforcement.

"It is extremely heartening that the large majority of people we have met, approve of Princeton Community Housing plans," declared Mr. Floyd. "For some of us, the fight to bring low and middle-income housing to Princeton goes back more than a decade."

Republicans, meanwhile, continued to press the issue of office-buildings in the Service Zone. At a press conference, candidates Barbara Smoyer and John Kuser declared that if elected, they would vote "yes" on an ordinance to allow office buildings in the Service Zones if Committeeman John D. Wallace introduces such an ordinance again, and at the press conference, he said he would — on January 2. His introduction was voted down by Committee's Democratic majority last week.

Mr. Wallace himself spent the lion's share of the press conference repeating his reasons for wanting offices back in Service. He charged that the "integrity of the zoning ordinance is now under question" because a developer couldn't be sure the zoning laws wouldn't be changed.

He suggested that two office buildings could be constructed on the Boice Lumber property on Alexander, bringing in tax money comparble to the $11,940 now produced by the Houghton Building on the same street.

Retail stores in the Service Zone could cause more problems, chiefly traffic, than an office building, he sid.

Mr. Kuser said construction of retail stores posed a greater "urbanization" threat in Service than offices.

"I strongly object to the preemptory way the Democrats handled the ordinance," Mr. Kuser stated, 'it was strictly a railroad job, without enough notice or discussion."

Mr. Kuser said residents he's interviewed have not expressed a desire for luxury apart-

DEMOCRATS CONFER WITH GRADUATE STUDENTS: James A. Floyd and Thomas Hartmann, running for re-election to Township Committee on the Democratic ticket, did some campaigning last week with graduate student residents of the Butler Tract in the Township's District Three. Let's Get the Record Straight on Ecology and the Environment

Ecology has three Democratic Supporters and two Republican opponents on the Princeton Township Committee.

Floyd, Hartmann and Bleiman voted, on ecological grounds, to sustain the nonpartisan decision of the Regional Planning Board rejecting the North Square office complex.

The Republicans voted to override that decision.

If you are interested in ecology and the quality of the Princeton environment, re-elect James A. Floyd and Thomas B. Hartmann to Princeton Township Committee on November 2nd.

DEMOCRATS PLAN FUND-RAISER. A brunch this Sunday will raise funds for Borough Democratic candidates Ned Schneier (center), who is running for mayor, and Alice Male who is running for re-election to Council. The hostess will be Mrs. Archibald Alexander, and the brunch will be held at the Alexander's home, 61 Westcott Road.

ments, but preferred more lower-priced homes to buy. He liked the idea of luxury apartments as desirable rateables, he said, although he would not want enough of them to attract new people to Princeton.

Mrs. Smoyer took the present Democrat majority on Committee to task for "no action" on Shopping Center traffice, the annoyance to neighbors of the Tiger Bus garage at the foot of John Street and a decision on asking for Federal money to develop the north side of Community Park.

Mr. Wallace added "inaction" on the Locust Lane culvert and Harry's Brook, and charged that there have been fewer executive sessions of Committee and fewer joint meetings with the Borough than previously.

POLITICS: BOROUGH

Democrats. Three proposals to cut into the Borough's housing problem were advanced this week by Edward Schneier, running for mayor on the Democratic ticket.

"Property tax reform, so that the Borough will not be penalized financially for building moderate-income apartments . . . consolidation with the Township to co-ordinate zoning and land-use planning . . . and encouragement from the mayor's office of "public and non-profit sponsorship for housing;" were Mr. Schneier's three proposals. "The private real-estate market is not providing the funds to get moderate-income housing off the ground."

He urged "an aggressive mayor who will take the case for tax reform to Trenton."

Mr. Schneier said "the citizens with the worst housing difficulties are those who have lived here longest: municipal employees, senior citizens and local merchants with growing families. The more affluent mobile newcomers have less of a problem."

Tax Collector candidate Mary Perone charged that Republican candidate Laurence Patterson, currently Deputy Tax Collector, would garner $400 more each year in salary if he were elected, not saving the Borough anything. The $400 is the elected Collector's salary; Mr. Patterson, as full-time civil servant on the job, earns $12,702.

State law requires election of a Tax Collector, she pointed out. "The Republicans would like you to believe that by electing Patterson you would be saving tax money. How can this be, when the law requires the tax collector be paid?"

Miss Perone also stated that Mr. Patterson should resign as Deputy Tax Collector if he wants to run for Collector.

Republicans. Housing occupied the Republican candidates, also. Incumbent mayor Robert W. Cawley, and Council candidates Thomas Cawley and Arthur P. Morgan said "an increased supply of good-quality housing for all income levels is one of the top priority problems facing the Borough."

To meet the needs of people leaving town because of high housing costs, the candidates state that "smaller unit developments in the Borough" are required, coupled with housing in the still-undeveloped parts of the Township.

The town's needs for public, low-cost housing must be met chiefly in the Township through such projects as Princeton Community Housing's 240 units and the University's proposed 200 units, candidates say.

"I hope some small projects sponsored by PCH and the University, can be built in the Borough," Mayor Cawley said, adding his hope that the Borough's Housing Authority may be able to buy and improve some existing "multi-unit structures."

"We are determined to limit severely any expansion of the Central Business District," the mayor stated, "and continue a zoning policy which encourages maintaining the number of existing houses, and in some areas the addition of more units per house."

Independent. Mrs. Marie Coan, running for mayor as an Independent, urged housing for an amalgamation of incomes and ages: "The older people do not want to be walled on hand and foot nor do they want to be segregated," she declared.

No community has the physical, mental and financial resources of Princeton Borough, Mrs. Coan stated, adding that "it is difficult to understand why, at election time, we hear so many proposals for the welfare of a group or groups, when less than ideal situations have existed for such a long time."

She named lack of sidewalks on the west side of Harrison from Lloyd Terrace to Nassau; lack of "walk" lights where Nassau intersects with Harrison, Vandeventer and Witherspoon and the need to "tap the resources of our knowledgeable retired citizens" as needs in the Borough.

OPEN ROLLS BACKED

By Fire Companies Here. Princeton's three volunteer fire companies have affirmed a policy of open membership in separate statements released this week, and endorsed by Borough Council.

Princeton Hook & Ladder Co. said: "The Princeton Fire Department is an equal opportunity department. However, all elements of the community are not now represented adequately in the department. Specifically there are too few minority members. Therefore the Princeton Fire Department and its three fire companies are seeking minority applicants both as regular members and junior members."

Mercer Engine Co. No. 3 added: "Any resident of Princeton Borough or Princeton Township, between 21 and 42 years of age, passing the physical examination is eligible as an applicant for active membership."

Princeton Engine Company No. 1 commented: "The officers and members of Princeton Engine Company No. 1 have always been an "equal opportunity organization" and will continue to be. Anyone interested in becoming a junior or senior member should contact any officer or member

TWO TRUCKS COLLIDE

At Nassau and Harrison. A panel and a pickup truck collided in the intersection of Harrison and Nassau Street Saturday morning at 7:33. Each continued on and struck buildings.

Ptl. Arthur Jackson charged both drivers, Nelson F. Hansen, 62, of Pt. Pleasant, and Elphage P. Bernard, 70, of Milltown, with red light violations. Mr. Hansen refused treatment for a bruised left knee.

Mr. Bernard also refused police help but was taken by his son to Princeton Hospital, where he was treated for two fractured ribs.

According to police, the Hansen truck, struck on the right front door by the Bernard truck, continued on into the northwest corner of the intersection where it jumped the curb and traveled some 30 feet across the front lawn of 342 Nassau, leveling 15 feet of hedge and shrubbery. It then struck the side of a wooden front porch, destroying it.

The impact spun the Bernard truck violently to the right. Originally traveling on Nassau, it mounted the Harrison Street curb and knocked down about 11 feet of picket fence at 344 Nassau. It continued on across a side yard and hit the side of the building, cracking a wall.

Following Too Closely. Sally B. Hughes, 47, of 604 Princeton-Kingston Road, was ticketed for following too closely last week after her station wagon rammed the rear of a car waiting to turn left at Snowden Lane.

Barbara Fomalont, 35, 40 Clover Lane, the other driver, was taken to Princeton Hospital in a Township patrol car where she was x-rayed for contusions of the shoulder and released. Her son, Michael, 10, was x-rayed for contusions of the head and forearm.

Ptl. Jackson investigated the 2:40 p.m. accident.

Ptl. James Vandermark of the Township is investigating an apparent one-car accident at 5:46 Sunday evening on Olden Lane.

He has been unable to talk to the driver, police said. Police added that two passengers that they identified only as Rebecca Young and Charles W. Young Jr., believed to be the children of the driver were taken to the hospital.

The entire front end of the victim's station wagon was a total loss, police said.

HOME IS ENTERED

On Harris Road. The home of Lothar Sander, 141 Harris Road, was entered and robbed Friday evening between 8:15 and 10:30.

Taken, police report, were a stereo amplifier and tape deck and a Princeton University athletic ticket book with a combined value of $469.29. Entry was through an unlocked front door. Ptl. David G. Wilbur investigated.

Ptl. James Vandermark and the Township detective bureau are also investigating the entry earlier last week of the home of Gordon Griffin, 160 Leabrook Lane. Mr. Griffin is Township attorney.

Adult Bike Riders!

Adults who own and ride bicycles may register them this Saturday between 9 a.m. and noon in the gym behind Borough Hall.

Bike registration for school children has been proceeding school-by-school, reported Borough Councilman Alice Male Tuesday night, as a way of preventing thefts and reclaiming bikes that are stolen. Adults are invited to join this Saturday.

A bike rack for the Tulane Street parking lot, long discussed, came up again before Council.

According to police, intruders pried open a rear door and ransacked a master bedroom. "At this time, we don't know if anything was taken," commented Chief Frederick Porter.

SCHOOL BOND REJECTED

By Hopewell Valley Voters. For the second time in seven months, voters in the Hopewell Valley Regional school district have rejected a new school bond.

Tuesday, voters in the district's three communities — Pennington, Hopewell Borough and Hopewell Township — defeated a proposed $5.1 bond issue by 501 votes, 1,725 to 1,224. It lost in all three communities.

A separate proposal to construct a $365,000 school swimming pool was defeated, 2,044 to 846.

In March, the same voters had rejected a proposed $6.9 school bond issue by a 3-to-1 margin. This time, the school board had conducted an active campaign to have the bond issue passed. Already housing more than 100 students above maximum capacity, the high school is scheduled to go on interlocking sessions next year. The school board has warned that unless a new school is built the system will soon have to resort to double sessions.

Under the bond issue defeated Tuesday, which was 26 percent less than the previous proposal, $4,334,000 would have been used to construct a new school for grades 11 and 12. A $776,000 addition was earmarked for the Timberlane School, which would house grades 9 and 10 under the propsed 2-2-2 system.

A spokesman of the system's administration commented following the defeat, that it was "very undecided at this point what the school board will do next." By state law, a school bond issue cannot be presented to the voters more frequently than twice a year. "It'll be at least six months before anything is done," he said.

ARREST TRENTON MAN

For Bogus Transactions. Borough police arrested a 51-year-old Trenton man Tuesday morning and charged him with five counts of passing stolen checks and money orders.

Sgt. Theodore Lewis and Ptl. Victor Fasanella arrested Joseph Ruckar in Community Liquors on Witherspoon Street at 11:30, as he was attempting to cash a stolen check. Held

TWO PAY $15 FINES

For Careless Driving. Two Princeton residents were fined $15 each in Borough court Monday for careless driving. Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. levied the fines against Thomas N. Thompson, 17, 611 Lake Drive, and Lloyd G. Wedderburn, 28, 32 Birch Avenue.

William G. Sayen, 23, 167 Edgerstoune Road, paid $30 for speeding. In addition, his license was revoked but Judge Tams left the duration up to the state's Motor Vehicle Department. Following too closely cost Sally R. Hughes, 47, 604 Princeton-Kingston Road, $15, while Lois C. Strayer, 68, 57 Balsam Lane, paid the same amount fo ra stop sign infraction.

Two Princeton University students were fined $10 each for failing to walk on sidewalks where provided. They are Charles R. Biggs, 19, and Hamilton CandeeII, 18, both of 111 Henry Hall.

In Township court last week, Judge Burton Peskin fined Russell R. McDonough, 17, River Road, Titusville, $20 for reckless driving.

Joanne T. Medlinsky, 41, 277 Snowden Lane paid $15 for disregarding a stop sign. Both pleaded guilty.

FLIGHT TWO SOARS

Onward and Upward. Flight Two's young members issued a progress report this week, as they continued into their fund-raising campaign. So far, they have $900 in contributions or pledges.

They have applied to three foundations, the Princeton Joint Recreation Commission, various arts councils and the Mercer County Park Commission for funds. Flight Two is also incorporating in New Jersey and applying for tax-exempt status.

Youth in Flight Two are also organizing a benefit concert, and lending a hand to parents who have offered to assemble a benefit art sale, a dinner-dance and subscription parties.

Jerry Saunders, the YMCA's "detached" street youth worker, will spend one third of his time at Flight Two. He will be a consultant to the paid staff, hold workshops in community affairs and leadership development, and will work with Flight Two's director Barrie Peterson and the program co-ordinator Stephen Cohen.

Last weekend, eight sets participated in a three-hour Flight Two square dance session; some two dozen young people joined a bike-hike and 350 came to a Saturday night dance at the Unitarian Church featuring "Chappaqua," a Princeton University band. That event netted $100 for Flight Two.

FOUR GOOD REASONS TO VOTE DEMOCRATIC NOV. 2

1. THE DEMOCRATS ARE ADDRESSING THE IMPORTANT ISSUES IN THE CAMPAIGN.
   - TRANSPORTATION — The Democrats believe you deserve a better local transportation system. That's why we've proposed carefully-drawn experiments with mass transit aid to bicycle riders, and low-cost transit for senior citizens.
   - HOUSING — Democrats are committed to the construction of more moderate-priced housing. That's why Ned Schneier, candidate for mayor, has called for a more aggressive search for state and federal housing funds. And that's why Democratic Council candidates, Alice Male and John Strange, place first priority on building such housing on the Borough's remaining available land.
   - ENVIRONMENT — Democrats believe local government should help protect the environment. That's why the Democrats are sponsoring Council legislation to ban non-returnable cans and bottles from the Borough.
   - BUDGETING — Democrats believe local taxpayers deserve every possible efficiency in local budgeting. That's why the Democratic slate has a task force of economists preparing management and budget reforms to strengthen Borough government.
2. A DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY ON THE BOROUGH COUNCIL DOES MAKE A DIFFERENCE. Look at the record. Under the Democrats, the Council has ordered Borough trucks to help in recycling efforts; continued support of "Special Projects" drug abuse programs; and begun an additional effort against drugs with a contract to IAP professionals. With a Democratic majority, the Council voted to establish Joint Commissions with the Township on the Elderly and on Transportation, so that concrete action can be planned in these important areas. A lot has been done, but the Democrats need your support in order to do more.
3. THE DEMOCRATS ARE OFFERING A BALANCED TEAM. It's a slate that represents men and women, that combines experienced leadership with an activist perspective on local government. It's a ticket that includes the skills of political scientists and the understanding of parents and homeowners. We believe it is a team that is qualified to cope with the challenges of a growing Princeton.
4. A DEMOCRATIC VICTORY CAN CARRY AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE. Like it or not, off-year elections are watched closely by leaders at all levels of government as a signal of voter attitudes. As Democrats, we are firmly committed to more aggressive state and federal efforts to improve housing opportunities, educational facilities, health services, and environmental quality. Help us carry that message to the politicians in Trenton and Washington by voting Democratic on November 2.

NEW RUBENS ON VIEW

At University Art Museum. A newly discovered painting by the Flemish master,. Peter Paul Rubens, is the featured masterpiece in the current Rubens display. The painting, "Cupid Supplicating Jupiter" has been acknowledged by the art world for many years, but only recently come into the public eye, courtesy of Malcolm Forbes, Princeton '41, publisher of Forbes magazine.

It is a representative work of the Flemish master, reflecting his skill with the human figure and vivid coloring that is traditionally found in his paintings. The visual excitement and movement that is associated with this artist is also evident in this work.

The painting is complemented by an excellent collection of Rubens drawings selected from major museums and collections throughout the world. The drawings embody all the vigor and anatomical skills displayed in the painting, but like all master drawings, reveal another dimension of this famous painter.

The drawings reflect Rubens fine eye for anatomical detail and total control over his medium, but also display a poetic softness that enhances the subjects. Rich values, fine line, delicate areas of shading and fine transitional tonal passages all combine for a richness seldom achieved in figure drawing. The masters skill is ably demonstrated in pencil, pen and ink, wash, chalk, and crayon.

At The Drawing Room. Watercolours and drawings by 19th and early 20th century artists focus on "The Wonderful World of Make Believe" at the Drawing Room. Many media are combined in the jewel like collection of small and smaller pieces of finely crafted whimsey.

Pencil drawings, pen and ink, and tiny paintings, some with antique over-tones and some with timely feeling reflect the taste of the century's change in their delicately wrought scenes.

Elves, dragons, damsels in distress and beautifully painted landscapes which served as illustrations are all part of this European collection of small art that was created to entertain. And entertain it does, by both its sense of humor and the display of the illustrator's skill.

At The Eye For Art. A collection of unusual prints by Trudy Glucksberg has been added to the October exhibition at the Eye For Art. The artists has developed each print around a profound quotation and illustrated her themes in rich color and well structured form.

The human figure, architectural motifs and textured areas are all used skillfully to develop pattern and movement. Mrs. Glucksberg makes interesting use of variations in size and subtle color harmonies in her repitition of themes.

At McCarter Theatre. The current Princeton Art Association Instructors exhibition at McCarter Theatre could have as its subtitle "The Artists Eye, a display of various approaches to media." Varying techniques and style are threaded throughout illustrating the many different approaches that several artists will use when expressing their art.

True realism, pure abstraction and the many degrees between the two extremes are all present in different forms. It is most interesting where the range of expression is displayed within a single medium. Very realistic subtly toned, well executed watercolor landscapes by Jack Grover play against impressionistic, brightly hued and highly stylized paintings by Rex Ashlek and soft, florals by Lucile Geiser, using the same medium.

Other artists exhibit contrast of style within their own work. Such is the case with Ashlock and in the paintings of Yvonne Burk. Mrs. Burk's skill with her paint is demonstrated in realistic, literary types of paintings and again in visually stimulating, purely non-objective works where texture and form and color tell the story.

Multicolored etchings by Mae Rockland display one aspect of the printer's work while woodcuts and engravings, stark in their black and white aspects provide another view of graphics.

Sharon Safran, weaver and painter, Ann Brower, instructor of needlework and David Chapin, nonobjective painter include their works for further demonstration of artists point of view.

At The Artisan, Etched wooden drawings by Judy Graese are featured in the current show. Both drawings and burnt wooden works are fairy tale-like pictures of princess-type ladies. They are depicted alone and with children, princes, pussycats and similar creatures.

The main body of the exibit consists of figures drawn into pieces of weathered barn siding with a woodburning tool that produces a delicate brown line. Te effect of the fine burnt line on the rough, greyed wood is quite unusual.

Bright, small drawings by this artist, included in the show would be at home in a children's book. Both the subjects and the style are highly remanticized.

—Helen Schwartz

STUART OPENS SERIES

With Commercial Art Exhibit. The Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart of Princeton will open its 1971-1972 exhibit series with the exhibit "The Many Sides of Comercial Art" on Sunday with a Preview and Tea in honor of the participating artists, many of whom are among the most outstanding designers, cartoonists, illustrators, art directors, photographers and film makers.

The Stuart exhibit marks the first time that all of these artists, almost all area residents, have been included in the same exhibit.

in a paper or magazine will be included in some instances. Also included will be examples of various "local" models—artists' wives, children and friends who posed for what later became a nationally and often internationally seen book jacket, record jacket, magazine cover, TV commercial, slide presentation or advertising film.

H. Avery Chenoweth, of Princeton, whose film, "All for the Love of Fred" was such an outstanding success on the N.B.C. Educational series will show a commercial slide presentation with sound in the Stuart Little Theatre adjoining the Gallery during the opening — and Fred Hautau, President of Adworks will show two short film presentations done for Time Magazine, "Words" and "Be Aware" as well as his wife Janet Hautau's short commercial.

Marvin Friedman, John Huehnergarth, Saul Lambert, Henri Martin, Charles McVicker, Mike Ramus, Arnold Roth and Bob Schulenberg are the participating artists as is Princeton's Cintra Sander whose designs for many local charities and community projects have been used for the past decade.

The exhibit will be at the Stuart Country Day School until November 1. The Gallery is open on Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m., but groups are welcome to see the exhibit at other times by making prior arrangements with the school office.

EXHIBITION OPENS

Of Japanese Antique Furniture. The Craftsmen's Guild, Roppongi, Tokyo, will present its first U.S. exhibition of Japanese Antique furniture October 15-31 at an exhibition building on Route 27 in Kingston opposite the Franklin State Bank.

Tokugawa and Meiji era wooden furniture will be on display everyday from 10 to 7. Approximately 70 percent of the exhibition, in addition to numerous unusual small items, will be available for purchase. Prices range from $5 for handmade wooden combs from the studio of Yoshio Ushimaru to $1,000 for a flawless Keyaki tansu chest crafted in Kyoto, circa 1820.

The exhibition director is T. S. Heineken, who lives in Japan. He invites buyers as well as browsers to come and share a cup of green tea with him.

Masculine and Individualistic. Of special interest in the exhibition are the single and double tansu chests. Without being physically massive, each is masculine and individualistic. The iron hardware and the hue and grain of exotic woods such as Keyaki, Chinese Fig, Cyprus and Cryptomeria and the translucence of Urushi lacquer make it difficult to draw a comparison with Western antiques.

All are functional as chests and most are completely lockable. Some have secret compartments crafted so cleverly for their original feudal owners that a modern thief would find only frustration. (Only the purchaser will be able to share the secret.)

Several Zelkovia wood Hibachi from the early 1800s in Kansai and Kanto styles have been refitted with heavy gauge copper liners and thick plateglass tops for use as unique cocktail or end tables. Biyobu screens and silk panels represent the traditional Kyoto painters' approach to flower and bird.

The Craftsmen's Guild, the sponsor, is a partnership of six men—five craftsmen over 70 and a foreign trade manager. Because restoration work is slow, good pieces scarce and the Japanese by nature reluctant to see their heritage exported, the Guild forsees not more than one exhibition each year in the U.S. and Europe.

Since his arrival from Tokyo, Mr. Heineken, the trade manager, has endeavored to research all available Japanese antique furniture in the area. He is confident that the Guild's exhibition represents the finest collection of traditional Japanalia to be available. Additional information about the exhibit may be obtained from him at 924-3817.

COLLAGES ON DISPLAY

At Cranbury Library. B. Sue Mesner Howard, chairman of the art department at Stuart Country Day School will have an exhibit of Polished Aluminum and Acrylic Collages on display at the Cranbury Township Library through November 5.

A graduate of Hood College, Mrs. Howard has had several exhibits in this area, including three with the Princeton Art Association at McCarter Theatre, and another with the Long Beach Island Foundation of Arts and Sciences. In addition to her work at Stuart, she teaches classes at the Art Association.

WOMEN IN THE ARTS

At Gallery 100. The work of women artists and craftsmen is on view at Gallery 100, beginning this Friday. The display ranges from rollicking, satirical nude etchings by Irene Halsman of New York, to pottery by Ilse Johnson, and Barbara Mauk's unusual selection of Appalachian handwork.

Irene Halsman's themes are women-and-wheels and women-and-music. Trained at the University of Wisconsin, the University of California at Berkeley, the Art Students League and at the Academia dei Belle Arte in Rome, her interests include sculpture, jewelry and photography.

Ilse Johnson, a prominent New Jersey potter and member of the Trenton State College faculty, will show her vigorous ceramic pots, bowls and other serving containers oriented to the harvest season.

From the handcraft of Appalachian women, Barbara Mauk has chosen a number of whisical and unusual items — ranging from apple dolls with dulcimers, corn husk dolls such as Contrary Mary (made in Fancy Gap, Va.) and purple cows made by Beria College, Ky., students.

There are beautiful old quilts, honeysuckle birds nests and even carved wolves in sheeps' clothing.

PUBLIC TRUTH vs. PRIVATE: PARENTS' DILEMMA

(Title idea borrowed from Henry Bryan, Staff Writer, Trenton Times, October 1, 1971)

The slithering hypocrisy of Princeton Parents is something to be reckoned with — and Mr. Bryan certainly tried in his article: Public Life vs. Private: A Teacher's Dilemma.

The Princeton community has provided thousands of dollars for drug prevention programs to protect their children. How irresponsible of Parents to publically ask the School Board whether it has a policy on professional and para — professional staff re: the use of drugs!

In a burst of warm hearted empathy, Mr. Bryan mistakenly thought that the Princeton — Harper Valley PTA was zeroing in on the private business of one teacher who may have made an "error." Mr. Bryan over looked a truth — or two.

Truth One: That same evening the School Board majority approved a second appointment of a staff member with drug associations.

Truth Two: Teachers' private lives are private until they put them on public display. And the problems of maintaining privacy become more complicated when police and newspapers document these public "occasions"!

Our benign question on drug policies may have appeared "loaded" to the School Board but that must be a matter of conscience. We mentioned no names, no staff positions, no alleged police charges.

In fact, it was Mr. Bryan who provided the identifying information and pinpointed one of the three police charges in his newspaper article.

Who gave Mr. Bryan permission to enter our school, visit a classroom, and interview a teacher? Was that Supt. McPherson's and Principal Birinyer's idea of protecting a teacher's private life?

Is this considered a responsible administrative decision?

Parents wonder what School Board President Bierman feels about having "the beans spilled"? He stated emphatically at the School Board meeting that personnel items could not be commented on publically. Yet school administrators "allowed" the newspaper article and aided Mr. Bryan in his quest for information: information that was an absolute no-no for Parents - - AND for the School Board!

Mr. Bryan also interpreted the implications of our questions. He said, "and a parent group in Princeton doesn't think teachers like her are fit to teach."

We never said that.

"Her" is innocent until proven guilty.

Actually, Mr. Bryan's "interpretation" is worthy of a second thought. Just consider for a moment the emotional problems that lead to drug taking — and the effects of drugs on behavior and personality.

What did Mr. Bryan interpret from the quotations we read aloud from Supt. McPherson's Citizens Report?

The kind of model an adult (teacher) creates for the child "is a crucial ingredient in the learning environment." (page 6) and

"Students involved in difficult drug problems . . . will be dealt with most seriously — for their own good and the good of the young school society in which they live." (page 10)

And then, Parents had the temerity to ask about policies re: professional staff and the use of drugs!

An unreasonable question?

Supt. McPherson thought so. He answered, The personal life of our staff is not of interest to the Board unless it pertains to the evaluation of a teacher as a professional in the classroom."

Even to wooly headed Parents, it is obvious that a responsible administrator should discuss drug taking during an evaluation of one of his teaching staff — if it is a problem.

And if drug taking is a problem, what then?

Does this vague "arrangement" suffice as Board policy on professional staff and the use of drugs?

Supt. McPherson expects "a full measure of adult responsibility" from his staff on student problems.

PARENTS EXPECT A FULL MEASURE OF ADULT RESPONSIBILITY AT "THE TOP" — AND FROM THE SCHOOL BOARD!

So far as evaluations of professional staff go — the actual quality and quantity of that practice in the Princeton school system is another sensitive area. Parents are far from certain that evaluations can be relied on for any kind of guidelines.

Last year the School Board lost a legal case because a teacher proved his evaluation was handled in an arbitrary manner and without actual observation of his work.

Another example: the School Board very prudently (Parents thought) decided to provide the assistance of a part time teacher, a classroom aide, and special services staff to help a teacher with a class of only 11 children last year.

This teacher was retained on the staff.

How would you evaluate the quality of her evaluation?

Mr. Bryan's "in-depth" research into the problems the School Board has with interfering parents didn't include asking Parents for their side of the story.

If he had, Parents would have told him that we strongly object to Supt. McPherson's comparison of the current drug "scene" to the sin of smoking a cigar in public in the olden days.

Parents think taking drugs is a whole different can of worms from smoking. Smoking may cause cancer. Drugs put you "out of your mind" temporarily — or permanently!

Parents also don't endorse that little gem of educational wisdom that Mr. Bryan so feelingly quoted:

"Let the kids develop themselves — not us develop them."

This quotation reminds us of the group of worried parents who descended on one of our neighborhood schools last year to ask why their first graders weren't learning to read.

The answer: Because the children hadn't ASKED to be taught to read.

This "notion" may be currently popular in the Princeton school system but is it realistic?

Current research in education confirms very decidedly that how well and how much a child learns and achieves depends on whether he is expected to learn and achieve. The greater the expectation of success, the greater the success.

As reassurance to all concerned, Parents will demonstrate that they have grasped the essence of the lessons Supt. McPherson, the School Board majority — and now, Mr. Bryan — would like to teach Parents.

1. Never question the judgement or decisions of a professional. It's arrogant.
2. Don't be an over-anxious parent. If a teacher has a drug reaction in the classroom, Supt. McPherson and the School Board majority will instantly provide a program to de-traumatize your terrified children.
3. Complain about school problems only to friends over a neighborly cup of coffee. Public questions are unfair, witch hunting, and hypocritical.
4. Face the fact that schools all over the country are "in trouble". This will make you feel better and relieve you of any responsibility for doing anything about your school problems.
5. Keep this in mind. The School Board is listening to parents. It's just that parents don't ask the right questions, in the right way, at the right time, and in the right place.

Why I Plan to Vote

DEMOCRATIC

By Duane Lockard

Duane Lockard, 120 Fitz-randolph, is chairman of the Department of Politics at Princeton University, and was formerly director of the undergraduate program at the University's Woodrow Wilson School. Before coming to Princeton a decade ago, he taught political science at Connecticut Legislature.

I shall vote for all the Democratic nominees in the Borough this November because Council members John Strange and Alice Male, have demonstrated an enlightened community interest and ability to represent the whole community and because the program of all the Democratic candidates, including Ned Schneier for Mayor and Mary Perone for Tax Collector, will bring to fruition some outstanding initiatives already taken.

The legislative contributions of Borough Democratic Councilmen have been outstanding and particularly so in the important area of civil liberties. Under the leadership of John Strange the police interference ordinance was repealed. This sensitivity for civil liberties was again displayed when an ordinance giving Borough officials unlimited ability to declare a civil emergency was wisely rejected.

In other legislative areas the Democrats also took the lead — for example, in establishing a commission to deal with the problems of the elderly. John Strange has introduced legislation to improve the quality of housing in Princeton through a rejuvenated housing inspection program. He also took the first step in the monumental task of improving our environment: the introduction of an ordinance to restrict the sale of non-returnable containers. The Democrats also proposed new and imaginative efforts to solve the parking problem and the problem of drug abuse.

Additional efforts are planned in the areas of a municipal recycling program and in a revision of the zoning code in order to protect existing housing from encroachment by business. This kind of activity reminds one that local government has a place in a world of great complexity and confusion. I hope such initiative, imagination, and representativeness will be rewarded by a grateful electorate.

The Democrats have done more than enact significant legislation; their appointments also show a genuine concern for the whole community. They have consistently selected representatives of all social, economic and ethnic groups to local boards and commissions. The Library Board, Recreation Board, and the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority all have a "new look" because the Democrats cared enough to make sure all of Princeton's residents were represented in government.

The Democrats have also vigorously sought to improve government, giving evidence of their expertise in governmental matters. They have called for a thorough overhaul of an outmoded budgetary process.

John Strange and his Democratic colleagues instituted new personnel procedures, emphasizing the need for merit pay increases, and the training and upgrading of Borough employees. The Democrats have also begun to examine the office of Administrator and the Borough Departments in order to improve performance levels. The Democrats took the lead in developing new purchasing procedures and in emphasizing the necessity for equal opportunity in fact in all the activities of the Borough.

The record of the Democrats has been outstanding in the three areas I have mentioned: civil liberties, legislation, appointments and administration. The re-election of John Strange and Alice Male to Borough Council, and the election of Ned Schneier as Mayor and Mary Perone as Tax Collector, would give the Borough a youthful, vigorous government. And very importantly, it would continue to have women represented in Borough government.

There have been elections when I backed my party hesitantly, if at all. But this November I shall vote in confidence for all the Democratic nominees: John Strange, Mary Perone, Ned Schneier and Alice Male.

REPUBLICAN

By William H. Walker II

William H. Walker, 168 Westcott Road, was a member of Borough Council for three successive terms, ending in January, 1969. A Princeton resident for 25 years, he is an architect and partner in the firm of Walker, Sander, Ford and Kerr.

On November 2, I will vote for Tom Cawley and for Arthur Morgan for Princeton Borough Council and I urge all Princeton Borough voters to do likewise.

During my years on Borough Council, I worked very closely with Art Morgan and Tom Cawley and can attest to their practical, yet innovative, and always courageous approach to the problems of the Borough. Both have given long and devoted service to the Borough of Princeton.

Arthur Morgan, a life - long resident of Princeton, has always demonstrated an active interest in the public service, business, and governmental aspects of our community. For many years, he has been a member of the Borough's Zoning Board and Planning Board, and presently he is a member of the Regional Planning Board.

As a member and chairman of the Borough Planning Board Arthur Morgan has lived and worked through many hours of public debate concerning the real character of the Borough and what it would become without direction. Some thought we should be strictly a University town; others stressed business, and many pressed for a residential community with severe restriction in the other two areas. I know first hand of Arthur's patience and understanding of the various points of view that were presented and considered,. because I tried to attend every Planning Board meeting.

I remember his chairmanship over the hearings on the updated Master Plan of the Borough. I remember the controversy and the concern of many. But, more than that, I remember Art's calm direction, the reasoned explanations and finally the unanimous adoption of the plan by the Planning Board. It may not be a perfect plan, none are, However, it has given the Borough direction and the opportunity to improve. It has not led to the chaotic problems that its original detractors envisioned.

Now we must move ahead to face the problems of the seventies. Arthur Morgan is convinced of the need and will work towards more and reasonably priced apartments. He understands the importance of the continued financial health of local businesses, a health that can be brought about by zoning regulations that permit a sensible amount of flexibility and imaginative design. Arthur Morgan appreciates the need for Princeton to be a balanced community.

Tom Cawley will also make a most valuable addition to the Borough Council. While I was on Council, Tom Cawley was first the assistant Borough Engineer and then the Borough Engineer.

It was a pleasure to work with him. His explanations of technical problems were concise and understandable.

They were always put in the context of practicability. The individual taxpayer was considered, but so was the community as a whole. Tom's ideas and then his projects were not suggested without a great deal of thought about their effect on your tax rate.

The tax rate, however, was not his only consideration. His first and most important consideration was you — the Borough resident and your neighbor in the Township.

The Borough will have to continue to face in the next few years, major problems concerning traffic, zoning, increased municipal functions (particularly in the field of public works), and our environment. I can think of no one more qualified, no one with more practical experience in these fields, than Tom Cawley. He has the ability and the desire to help us solve these problems.

Most importantly, he knows that they must be solved within the economic ability of the Borough, to pay for what we want, either through reasonable taxes or State, County, or Federal grants. We solve nothing by becoming a one class community because of ever increasing property tax rates.

There are many other reasons why I intend to vote for Tom Cawley and Arthur Morgan — the more obvious reasons. They share your concern about drugs, about activities and opportunities for youth, about our senior citizens, about the welfare of every citizen of Princeton. They will work for a better Princeton. Arthur Morgan and Tom Cawley have the experience, the ideas, and the record that can achieve this goal.

Vote for Tom Cawley and Arthur Morgan on November 2. I will!

YOU CAN THANK MAYOR FLOYD AND COMMITTEEMAN HARTMANN FOR THE LARGEST LOCAL TAX INCREASE IN PRINCETON TOWNSHIP IN THE LAST 10 YEARS.

(Are they really working for you!)

Last year our local tax rate (the part controlled by our Democrat Township Committee) increased by a whopping 14.6%. The school board and the county boosted your total taxes even further. Who knows what they'll add next year if you let them.

Barbara Smoyer and John Kuser have pledged to brake this rate in rising taxes. They are your Republican candidates for Township Committee. They want to keep Princeton a place where we can all afford to live, but they need your vote (and a lot more) to do it.

FRED BAUER TO SPEAK

At Public Library Series. The Princeton Public Library will begin its 1971-72 monthly program series on Tuesday evening, October 19, with a presentation by Fred Bauer on "America on Foot and Bicycle."

Mr. Bauer, a Princeton resident, is the author of "How Many Hills to Hillsboro?", the story of his family's cross-country bicycle trip. He is the editor of "Ev: the Man and His Words," a humorous word picture of the late Senator Dirksen.

In preparation for the book, Mr. Bauer traveled through Illinois with the senator on his last campaign trip. Mr. Bauer's latest book, "Putting It All Together," was written with Brooks Robinson, most valuable player of the 1970 World Series. Mr. Bauer is currently at work on a hiking book.

Mr. Bauer will draw on his family's "camping - hiking - bicycling forays," which include a 2,000 mile bicycle trip across America, a summer "hike" along the Appalachian Trail from Georgia to Maine with "our four kids, two Sardinian donkeys, and our German Schnauzer, Heidi," and this past summer's 400-mile bicycle trip from Georgia state line to Miami, Florida.

The program will be presented at the Public Library at 8 p.m., on Tuesday. Admission is free, and no tickets are required.

2 ORGANIZATIONS MERGE

To Aid Women Job Seekers. In keeping with recent trends toward greater cooperation between Princeton University and the Princeton community, the two local professional women's job-information organizations are merging operations on a one-year trial basis.

The Professional Roster of Women, a voluntary, non-profit organization whose aim is to match qualified women with suitable professional jobs, and the Job Roster of the University League, a similar file of university-affiliated women, have agreed to jointly staff an office in Stevenson Hall, 83 Prospect Ave., weekdays from 10-12:30.

The two organizations will combine their individual listings of registrants and prospective employers with the aim of providing more centralized and coordinated service as a clearinghouse of information valuable to both.

Fred Bauer

Women with professional training or experience in a variety of fields — for example, advertising, mass communications, art, science, mathematics, language, teaching, office management, and publishing — are registered. Listing is open to anyone in the Princeton area who has professional training and is available for work immediately or in the near future.

Registrants will be directed to local employers and may refer to the Roster library of information on local firms, colleges, and institutions. Similarly, employers are assured of access to a register of highly trained and skilled individuals, more than half of whom hold one or more advanced degrees.

No fee is charged for these services. Interested persons may call 921-9561 during office hours for further information.

Location of the combined rosters in Stevenson Hall, a university-affiliated facility, is intended to enhance integration of activities between town and university. The policy of cooperation coincides with the established Stevenson Hall program of encouraging contact between women in the community and Princeton University women students.

The groups will meet with their student's guidance counselor, assigned as follows: A-C, Marvin Trotman, Room 145; D-G, Donald Ringkamp, Room 146; H-L, Mrs. Mollie Updike, Room 147; M-P, Dewey Bookholdt, Room 148; Q-S, Richard Saldon, Room 153; T-Z, Mrs. Thelma Bornheimer, Room 154, and Mrs. Ethel Thomas, college counselor, in the cafeteria.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Educators on Panel. Four educators from the Princeton area will meet to discuss new educational happenings in schools today, in a program sponsored by the Princeton Chapter of Hadassah. Open to the public, the forum will be held at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, October 27 at the Jewish Center.

Entitled, "What's in a Name?", the program will define such terms as "multi-age", infant school, "open spaces" and discuss what these concepts offer children.

The panel will be moderated by Dr. Erness Brody, associate professor of education at

Without direct access to the out-of-doors, your basement becomes a seldom used, dead-end area, instead of a "live", low-cost space for the enjoyment of your whole family.

A BILCO Basement Door costs so little when it's included in the foundation construction. With it, you will as much as double the living space of your new home! Let us show you how easily and inexpensively you can include a BILCO Door and Stair Stringers in your building plans.

Come see the Canes, in Rosemont, New Jersey. They've kept alive the love of hand-worked woods and simple lines in home furnishings. Most of the things you'll find at Cane Farm are handmade, either right on the farm or in the shops of other artisans. CHAPIN PARENTS PLAN

For Back-to-School Night. Approximately 100 families are expected to attend Back-to-School Night at Chapin School this Sunday at 5 p.m. The evening is being planned by a committee of the Parents' Association to acquaint parents with the school, now in its 40th year.

Parents will follow their child's schedule of classes, meet the teachers, and learn what is planned for the year. They may also browse and buy at the Book Fair, a display of adult and children's books specially selected by Mrs. Jean Riley, school librarian. Proceeds of the sale go toward buying books for the school library.

At 6:30 a social hour is planned, followed by a buffet supper. Mrs. Lewis W. Hicks and Mrs. Edward Folmer are co-chairmen of the Back-to-School-Night Committee, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Barry Rednor, Mrs. James Thompson, Mrs. Richard Lamb, Mrs. Robert Sibson and Mrs. John Flemer.

During the evening parents can meet two faculty members who are new to the school this year and one who is returning. Mrs. Deborah Sussna, who has taught English in the Hopewell Valley Regional Junior High School, is teaching English and reading in the seventh grade. Teaching French and coaching soccer is Barry Peterson, who has taught at Rutgers Prep and has played the guitar professionally in the area. George Scherer, who taught gym at Chapin for four years in the past, has returned to direct the physical education program.

ELECTION HOTLINES SET

For Voter Information. The League of Women Voters of New Jersey is again this year providing citizens with two Election Hotlines. These Hotlines will offer voters nonpartisan information on registration and voting; the candidates and public questions appearing on the ballot.

"The newly apportioned voting districts, first time young voter registration, three referenda questions and contests for 120 seats in the state legislature will keep the Hotlines sizzling this year," says Nina McCall, New Jersey League President. Volunteers from local Leagues are manning the Hotline phones until Election Day, Nov. 2.

There are two Hotline numbers. One located in the League's Montclair office whose number is (201) 746-1465 and one located in the League's Trenton office whose number is 394-3303.

ETS RECEIVES GRANT

To Aid Student Guidance. Educational Testing Service has received a two-year grant of $290,000 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York. The grant will continue Carnegie's support of the development of a computer-based guidance system especially designed to help community college students make informed career decisions.

William Turnbull, president, who expressed ETS' appreciation for this assistance in using technology innovatively to meet the needs of students, said the foundation had previously awarded ETS $372,000 to aid developmental work during the first three years of the project, called a System of Interactive Guidance and Information (SIGI).

The system is based on a theory of guidance that emphasizes each student's own values. The student engages in a dialogue with a small powerful computer by means of a special communications terminal equipped with two screens that flash information to the student on demand.

Much of the current grant will be used for field testing and evaluation of SIGI during the next two years. New Jersey's Mercer County Community College will participate in the first field trial.

Exploring Student's Values. The student who uses SIGI sits before the terminal screens, which are connected with a computer capable of storing a variety of information about educational or career choices. As the student interacts with the computer, SIGI begins by helping him to explore his own values and personal satisfactions to which he can assign priorities.

Then the terminal screens present the student with information about various options that fit his values, and help him to predict his chances of success in preparatory programs. Later the system also confronts the student with simulated problems and outcomes that could be the results of his previous decisions.

Alan Pifer, president of Carnegie Corporation, observed that, in spite of the critical importance of personal, academic, and vocational counseling in community colleges these institutions, with an average of one counselor per thousand students, are simply unable to perform this function adequately.

"The rapid growth of enrollments in community colleges -- two million now and expected to double by 1980 – only underscores the need," he said, "to develop individualized and effective guidance systems that will extend appreciably the counselor's ability to assist many more young people in making intelligent decisions affecting their educations and future occupations."

Dr. Martin R. Katz, a senior research psychologist at ETS who developed SIGI, said it is designed to help students select alternatives for action. "SIGI should teach a student to think about vocational choices rationally and systematically," he explained. "The emphasis is not merely on the content of decisions, but on the process of decision-making."

GIRL SCOUTS ACTIVE

TRENTON MAN DIES
When Truck, Car Collide. A 61-year old Trenton man was killed here last week when his car collided with a truck on Stockton Street near Library Place.

Eugene R. Davis was pronounced dead on arrival at Princeton Hospital at 5:07 p.m. last Wednesday--51 minutes after police were called to the scene. An autopsy performed by County Physician Dr. Mathew Lapin revealed that Mr. Davis died of a hemorrhage from a ruptured spleen.

The truck driver, Albert C. Corbin, 42, of Trenton, was uninjured. The impact wedged the victim's car under the truck and he had to be extricated by members of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. The Davis car was a total loss; there was extensive damage to the truck on the driver's side.

According to Borough police, the victim's car crossed over the center line and collided with the truck. No charges have been filed, pending completion of the investigation by Sgt. Theodore Lewis.

SUPPLIES AVAILABLE
From Red Cross. At the request of the Princeton First Aid Squad, the Princeton Chapter of American Red Cross has assumed responsibility for sick-room supplies. Its new headquarters at 182 North Harrison St. provides ample room for storage and care of supplies as well as any record-keeping that is required.

The Red Cross has available at the present time: two wheelchairs, several crutches, a walker, a tray on wheels to be used over a hospital bed and several smaller sickroom items. Any of these are immediately available for loaning out to any area resident who has a temporary need.

In order to expand its service and bring additional help to the injured or ill, the Red Cross will welcome additional contributions to its sick-room supplies.

Anyone who no longer needs a crutch, wheelchair or other device and who would be willing to contribute it to help his neighbor to regain his health, may leave his contribution at Red Cross headquarters. Or if help is required in getting it delivered, phone the Red Cross at 924-2404.

THE AFFLUENT SUBURB: PRINCETON

a revealing study of a community in the upper quarter of American income levels, educational achievements and life styles.

By George Sternlieb, director;

Robert William Burchell and Lynne Bayer Sagalyn of the Center for Urban Policy Studies, Rutgers University.

Using Princeton, New Jersey, as a case study, this book surveys the housing problems developing in "affluent suburbs" and their political and economic implications.

The Affluent Suburb shows that towns like Princeton, where the wealthy have attempted to insulate themselves from the poor and the ordinary, are going to become even more exclusive and expensive residential enclaves. As they do, they will encounter serious problems, many of which are outlined in this book.

Tiger Eleven Hoping to Apply Brakes Against Colgate Saturday

In brighter years, Princeton football teams with a good shot at the Ivy title have had trouble playing a good game against Colgate, an invariably scrappy foe anchored on the fourth Saturday of the Tigers' iron-bound schedule. Two seasons ago, for example, the Orange and Black eleven that eventually shared the championship with Dartmouth and Yale went down before the Red Raiders, 35 to 28.

Now 0 and 3 for the first time in nearly a quarter century, Princeton's problem will be to come up for a non-Ivy team at a time when morale over the deeply disappointing start is distinctly low. Colgate, on the other hand, has already whipped Yale and will be extremely eager to add the Tigers to its list of 1971 victims. Game-time in Palmer Stadium is 2 p.m.

Steve Goepel, who directed the visitors' attack for two seasons and set eight Colgate records, is now the back-up quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys, behind Roger Staubach and Craig Morton. In his place is sophomore Tom Parr, a player of considerable promise who guided the New Yorkers to victories over Boston University and Yale. He directs a wishbone T that is picturesque when operating as it is conceived.

Another sophomore, 6-1, 196-lb. Mark Van Eeghen, is the team's leading ball carrier, while a third member of the Class of 1974, 213-lb. Ralph Folkes, also starts in the backfield. They led a four-touchdown attack against Yale in the Bowl, and play by Princeton's defense of the brand it displayed against Rutgers and Columbia will almost certainly hang a fourth straight defeat on the Tigers this weekend.

Colgate's own defense, however, has been unimpressive this fall, largely because the secondary is composed of so many new faces. It yielded three touchdowns in the victory over B.U. and then gave up 38 points in the loss to Cornell and Ed Marinaro.

Yale, too, scored three times in defeat, while last weekend, Holy Cross rolled to a 28-14 triumph. Princeton can at least go into the game with awareness that a capable offense can see its efforts reflected on the scoreboard against this opponent.

QUICK LOOK AT COLGATE

OFFENSE: Building, but has shown good promise, averaging better than three touchdowns while team has split first four games.

DEFENSE: Learning, and has had its problems as numerous sophomores develop. No opponent has failed to score at lease three times.

CHIEF ASSET: Belief in the future, built around quarterbacking of sophomore Tom Parr.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Youth and consequent mistakes while learning.

TYPE OF ATTACK. Multiple T.

COSTLY ERRORS GO ON

Offense Now at Fault. Belief that it might shed its losing ways if its defense ever lived up to its potential was shattered for Princeton's football team at Ithaca Saturday when the Tiger offense gave a butter-fingered performance so bad that it bordered on the unbelievable. Every one of Cornell's 19 points was directly traceable to a fumble or an interception, and each of the three glaring errors was committed by a senior.

Early in the second quarter, with the game a scoreless tie, quarterback Rod Plummer called for a fake kick on a fourth-and-one situation, sending fullback Doug Blake into the line. Blake dropped the center snap, the Ithacans took over on the Princeton 26 and five plays later, had their first touchdown.

Three plays after that, a typically high Plummer pass bounced off the finger tips of end John Solic into the hands of defensive back Don Jeans, who ran 42 yards for Cornell's second score. The half ended with the home team leading, 13 to 0.

A scoreless third quarter, as the vastly improved Princeton defense kept Ed Marinaro under control and the game within reach, drew to an end as Hank Bjorklund went into the middle, fumbled and Cornell recovered on the Tigers' 35. Seven plays later, an 18-yard pass raised the margin to 19-0 but did not rule out logical speculation that if the offense had not pock-marked the day with mistakes, the lone TD the Tigers managed might have been the only score of the game.

9 Fumbles, 11 Dropped Passes. Fumbling nine times, Princeton lost the ball only on three occasions because a number of the hobles occurred in the backfield before a Cornell defender could scramble for it. Of the 37 passes that Plummer and sophomore Jim Flynn threw, 11 were within reach of the receivers but were not completed as they bounced off assorted finger tips. Three more were picked off, one for the TD and another halting a Princeton drive on the Cornell goal line.

Thus the Tigers, who suffered 37 turnovers last year (balls lost on fumbles or interceptions), hurt themselves badly with six in the loss to Cornell. The defeat marked the first time since the Ivy League went formal a decade and a half ago that they have started 0-2 in the race, a figure which eliminates them from contention before the season is half over.

Adjustments made in the defensive platoon were of marked benefit. Junior Mike Kincaid replaced the veteran Steve Sikora at left end, helping to contain Marinaro sweeps on pitchouts.

Sophomore Gary Marshall was installed in the safety slot, with Captain Bob Wolfe leaving that for the defensive halfback spot vacated by Kevin English. Marshall weighs only 155 on the program, but sailed into the 210-lb. Marinaro with utter abandon and lived to tell the tale. He gave the firm impression of good play diagnosis, a factor that has been lacking at deep safety heretofore.

Marinaro's Statistics May Not Impress in Voting for Heisman Trophy

Don't bet too heavily on Cornell's Ed Marinaro as the 1971 winner of the Heisman Trophy.

Same day that he was running for 144 yards against Princeton, which is not largely regarded as a national power, Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma gained 214 yards against third-ranked Texas. Even though Marinaro retained his lead nationally on yards per-game average, Pruitt's performance has to have a major effect on the selectors who will name the Heisman winner.

Ironically, installation of Poly-Turf at Ithaca appeared to hurt Marinaro more than it helped. Three times when he attempted to cut, he slipped before he was hit, each time going down for a loss.

The Cornell senior also appears destined to complete his college career without the benefit of an aerial attack good enough to open up the opposing defenses. In three games, the Ithacans have averaged about 65 yards passing--a lack of balance that will permit a stacked defense against his power running.

At least in the Princeton game, which it dearly wanted to win, Cornell showed a tendency to overuse Marinaro, without whom it would almost certainly fail to top the .500 mark. Hit extremely hard during a touchdown drive midway through the second half, he was withdrawn for two plays but sent back in to try for a two-point conversion.

Again, Tiger tacklers nailed him--short of the goal line--and again he was visibly groggy. After the game, he said he was unable to recall the first half.

Marinaro's immediate future appears brighter, however, since it is unlikely that any Ivy team save possibly Dartmouth will pare down his effectiveness to the extent that Princeton did when its defense had an impressive day. Like Bill Bradley in basketball, he will hold the Ivy League records he is currently setting for years to come, but whether that will bring a rush of votes for the Heisman Trophy remains a major question.

As it has for the past three weeks — while losing three games — Princeton considerably outgained the team which defeated it. The Tigers had a 21-10 lead in first downs and recorded total offense of 338 to 247 for the victors. They could not, however, move inside the 15-yard line and on the last play of each half — as they were were going for a score from close range — they fumbled.

The only TD Princeton managed followed a Cornell fumble of a booming Bjorklund punt. The Ithacans' safetyman dropped it on the five, sophomore Kerry Brown recovered on the one and Bjorklund took it in on his second shot. He added a two-point conversion to outscore Marinaro for the day, the Cornell star having been spilled short of the end zone on a similar attempt.

No one will know much before game-time Saturday who Princeton's quarterback will be. Plummer left the action at Ithaca just before the end of the first half, having suffered a severe ankle sprain, and Flynn played the rest of the game.

Plummer's injury is a day-to-day affair which may permit him to play even if he has not practiced during the week. If he doesn't, the Tigers can at least build with Flynn for next year. The sophomore already has the knack of hitting his receivers in the bread basket fairly often, a touch that has been lacking since Scott MacBean graduated two years ago.

HUN VS. PENNINGTON

Stops George School, 20-14. What a difference a year makes.

Last year, Hun School was tearing up everyone in sight and Pennington was something of a doormat in the Penn-Jersey League. Hun has since dropped out of the League, and Pennington, which was one of the few schools in the league which agreed to play Hun this year, will probably be favored to turn the tables Saturday on its long-time tormentor.

Pennington, under new coach Jim Feijo, is undefeated in three games, giving the Red Raiders their fastest start in years. Hun is 2-1 and not tearing up anyone this year. The two will meet Saturday at 2 in Pennington where it will be homecoming for the hos. eleven.

"It will be a tough game," acknowledged Hun coach Dave Leete. The rivalry between the two neighboring schools has always been keen. "It was, has been and always will be," said Leete.

Pennington, after easy wins over Englewood and Morristown Prep, squeaked by the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf, 8-6 in its last start. Hun followed its 6-0 win over Admiral Farragut with a 20-14 triumph over George, School here Saturday.

Chalifoux and Rafalski. Hun was led by quarterback Alan Chalifoux and halfback Greg Rafalski. Between them they accounted for all of Hun's points.

Chalifoux opened the scoring with a 20-yard run in the second period and then kicked the extra point to put Hun ahead, 7-0. George came right back, however, scored on a sweep and then went ahead, 8-7, when it ran the extra point, again on a sweep.

Rafalski scored the first of his two touchdowns when Hun took the opening kickoff of the second half and drove down field, Rafalski going over from the three. Hun won it in the final quarter after Chalifoux's passing brought Hun within range and Rafalski again banged over from three yards out.

"Rafalski was running very well," commented Leete on his junior halfback. "He had his best game of the year."

PHS HAS WEEK OFF

After 34-0 Loss to Trenton. Beset by a lack of experience and a near zero offense, the Princeton High School football team will get a week's vacation from the hard realities of the football gridiron.

Not a member of any organized conference, PHS as an independent has found it hard to fill its schedule in recent years. One result is this week's open date. The Little Tigers will resume action next Saturday, October 23, at Bridgewater-Raritan West. Kickoff has been changed from 1:30 to 2:15.

For a team going places, an open date is anathema; for PHS it is a welcome respite. Clearly, the Little Tigers have not been able to accomplish the present-day goal of putting it all together. "The extra week can't help but be an advantage," observed coach Dick Wood. "There were so many things I wanted to get done this week (in time for the Trenton game) and I didn't get to half of them."

RUBBING IT IN: Trenton quarterback Andre Thompson gives PHS coaches Jim Beachell and Bill Cirullo a first-hand look as he races for a first down early in Saturday's game. View did not improve as home team romped to 34-0 triumph. (Staff Photo)

What can you say about a team that rushes for one yard in an entire half? That commits one mistake after another. That has no glaring strengths. This is no love story, but the sad story of the present PHS squad..

"We're getting worse instead of better," said Wood after witnessing the 34-0 defeat hung on his team Saturday by Trenton. "I don't know why."

Trenton Scores Early. The home team Tornadoes, which, like the Little Tigers, were looking for their first win, got all the points they needed after the game was only two minutes and nine seconds old. After PHS was unable to move in the initial series of downs, Steve Sanford's punt was blocked and picked up by Arnold Thompson around the ten for an easy TD. If it continues its present rate, the 1971 PHS squad will set a record for blocked punts. That was Sanford's fourth in three games and the second that led to an enemy score.

In the same period, THS drove 53 yards for its second score. With four minutes left, quarterback Andre Thompson passed to his fleet halfback Mike Battle in the end zone. The pass covered six yards and was the first thrown by THS in the game. The big play was an 18-yard run by Battle who faked a punt on fourth down from the 36.

Trenton turned it into a rout with two more scores within 90 seconds in the second period. Battle got the first when he intercepted Joe McGuinn's diagonally thrown pass and returned it untouched. The play covered 25 yards.

McGuinn Intercepted. In the first play following the return kickoff, McGuinn's pass to Chris Grazel, playing his first game, was picked off by Arnold Thompson who returned it to the PHS 32. Trenton got all 32 in one gulp on the next play when Andre Thompson passed to his twin brother, Arnold, for the score.

Trenton got its final six-pointer in the third period on a sustained drive. Andre Thompson scored it on a 24-yard keeper around the left side. He cut back into the middle and scored standing up. After that, THS coach Frank Capraro started to substitute

For its part, PHS couldn't get clicking--even against the Trenton reserves. McGuinn hit on two fine passes to Gil Spencer and Grazel for successive first downs just before the half ended but he lacked consistency.

Trenton's defense--and Capraro didn't make any substitutions here--cut off Princeton's running game cold. Nor was the blocking there. Just a lot of sputtering.

"The kids could have quit after the first quarter but they stayed in there," said Wood. "We played better in the second half."

By better, he meant that PHS rushed for 45 yards in the second half. Its total output on the scoreboard in three games has been six points. Not much to give hope for any turnaround, but perhaps Wood and his staff may find the answers this week.

ROB GIPS GET GOOD YARDAGE UP THE MIDDLE: Princeton Day halfback Rob Gips busted through the line and into the Morristown secondary on this play, picking up enough yardage for a first down on the Panthers' first period drive, culminating in their first touchdown of the season. PDS lost 16-6, but Gips averaged seven yards a carry in the game. (Bill Hilton Photo)

Sloop class. At the halfway point in the current series, McPherson is first in the Sloops followed by Porter and Hector Poventud. John Hopfield leads the Sunfish skippers; Gibson is second and Holzman, third.

PDS BEGINNING TO JELL

To Play Bryn Athyn Next. The Princeton Day football team is half way toward its first victory. This Friday at 3 p.m. at home against Bryn Athyn, the Panthers will try to come up with the other half.

Last week against Morristown, the Blue and White outplayed the bigger visiting team, but did not outscore it, losing 16-6. Morristown scored twice, both times on long plays, but virtually all the rest of the game belonged to PDS.

Rolling up 290 yards on the ground, the Panthers had several drives going on, but all save one were stopped short of the end zone. The successful drive came the first time PDS had the ball, as they went 70 yards in 12 plays.

Quarterback Tad vanDusen used his two backs, Rob Gips and Kirk Moore, on thrusts through a Morristown line that outweighed the Panthers' by 15 pounds a man. Gips went over for PDS's first score of the season behind good blocks from guards Dan Blum and John Kalpin and center Roger Williams.

Two successful kicks by Pieter Fisher were nullified by penalties, and the extra point attempt finally failed on the third try.

Morristown did not wait long to retaliate. Less than a minute later quarterback Doug Fessenden hit end Chris Zabrowski with a 52-yard score. A two-point conversion was good, and the visitors led 8-6 at the half.

The winners' other score came on a roll out by Fessenden, good for 76 yards. PDS defense was solid the rest of the time, holding Morristown to just eight first downs. Kalpin and safety John Boyd halted other drives with interceptions.

Moore had a fine day for himself, rolling up 131 yards for the day. Gips had 77 yards in 11 carries. If the Panthers can get their passing attack on target, they could wipe out their 0-3 record in a hurry.

BOWLING NOTES

WELFARE IS TOPIC

For League Units. "Welfare Reform: Yes" is the subject that will occupy October Unit meetings of the League of Women Voters of the Princeton area.

Under discussion will be such topics as a national guaranteed minimum income, the optimum basic guarantee for a family of four, and the relationship between welfare and low-paying jobs.

Discussions will be led by League members who have studied widely in the field, and who will act as resource people.

The first unit will meet next Tuesday at 9:15 a.m. in the Princeton Methodist Church, Nassau and Vandeventer. Baby-sitting, at 50 cents for one child and 25 cents for each additional child, will be available.

1962 Chrysler

That should tell you a lot about the cars we sell.

Newport Royal 2-Door Hardtop

Whether you own a big or small car, pay a little or a lot, the one thing you don't need from a car is trouble. You want a car that will hold up. A car that's built to last.

Well, we're with you. Just look at this figure:

9 out of 10 new Chryslers registered in the last 10 years are still on the road.

This includes all the various owners, any kind of terrain, and numbers of miles. But every Chrysler is designed and built the way you want it—to last. So even if you won't be keeping a car for years and years, it's good to know you've got all that quality going for you in your first year as well as in later years.

You gotta have heart.

The quality of a Chrysler starts deep down in the heart of the car. That's where you've gotta have it. That's where you get it. With such time- and road-proven features as Chrysler's torsion-bar suspension and TorqueFlite automatic transmission. The rigid strength of unibody construction. And a 7-step dip-and-spray anti-rust process. Extra care like that is why so many Chryslers stay in great shape.

Every Chrysler Imperial is road-tested at the factory.

If our cars aren't right, we don't want you to have them. For example, every Imperial is put through a road test at the factory that includes over 100 different checks before it reaches you.

This year every Chrysler car offers a new optional electronic ignition system that does away with the points and condenser that can wear out. This helps keep the engine tuned longer. And a tuned engine means cleaner exhaust.

From our lowest-priced Chrysler Royal to our big, luxurious Imperial, Chrysler cars are built to last. The same is true of every Chrysler-engineered car we sell—Valiant, Duster, Cricket, Satellite and Fury.

We think that's the kind of car America wants. That's the kind of car we'd like to show you. Come see us today.

Princeton May Get First New Bank in 60 Years

Princeton's first new bank since 1893 may be in operation on Nassau Street before another year has passed.

The NJN Bancorporation (New Jersey National Bank is its only subsidiary so far) has filed an application to organize a new national bank in Princeton. It will probably be called the New Jersey National Bank of Princeton, although other possible names are "Princeton National" or "Nassau National."

"I think we prefer 'New Jersey National Bank of Princeton' because it ties the family together, so to speak," is the comment of Richard G. Macgill, president of NJN Bancorporation and New Jersey National.

Richard D. Macgill

Thew new bank, capitalized at $1,000,000 to start, will probably be built at 190 Nassau as another wing on the Edmund Cook Building, Mr. Macgill said. A wing on the east already houses Ardis Leigh antiques, and the new bank building might be built on the west, making a square "U". The bank would have a lease arrangement with the Cook Realty Company.

The application specifies the Borough of Princeton. The Township's new Service Zone ordinance allows banks in the two Service Zones, but Mr. Macgill says NJN Bancorporation prefers the Central Business District. If the bank should decide on the Township, a new application would have to be made.

New Jersey National already has a financial service office in Princeton, but it's a one-man operation and strictly limited under the banking laws.

"We can talk about a loan with you in that office and even sign the note, but we can't hand you the check!" Macgill says.

Walk Right In. The new bank will be able to hand you the check. It will be a complete entity, not a branch of New Jersey National, and Princeton's first wholy new bank since First National was founded in 1893.

The specialty of the new bank, Mr. Macgill continues, will be service to business, particularly the computer-oriented and research firms that are so numerous in the Princeton area.

"New Jersey National already has a lot of customers in these fields," Mr. Macgill observes, "and in fact, we've got computer specialists on our staff just to deal with the companies like these."

Mr. Macgill said that New Jersey National has studied the Princeton area for three or four years. Until a year and a half ago regulations prohibited the opening of a branch bank in a town that already had the main office of an existing bank. But then the holding company procedure was allowed, and the door opened.

Machinery. The application must be approved by the Federal Office of the Comptroller of the Currency. Then the Federal Reserve must give permission for the holding company — the NJN Bancorporation — to acquire the new bank. "It's a chicken-and-egg kind of situation," comments Mr. Macgill.

In examining the application the Comptroller of the Currency will consider such matters as the ability of the town to support another bank, whether a new bank would adversely affect the health of the existing banks, and finally, whether the new enterprise has a chance of being successful.

All incorporators are New Jersey National officers. In addition to Mr. Macgill, who lives in Princeton, they are John D. Wallace, who also lives in Princeton; Richard Galaudet of West Windsor; Joseph Catelli Jr., of East Windsor; John H. Walther of Ewing; John J. Horgan Jr. of Lawrence and Albert Bernard of Trenton.

"We think Princeton is ready for a third choice in banking," Mr. Macgill concludes. "The public and our competition can both profit from our being here."

He hopes for a decision by January 1.

METALS FIRM ACQUIRED

By Applied Research. Princeton Applied Research and Princeton Metal Systems Corporation have announced the signing of a stock purchase agreement under which the former will acquire a 95% interest in PMSC and operate it as a subsidiary. Established in August, 1970, PMSC was at the time of its organization known as Systems Metal Corporation.

The purchase price will be the proceeds of the sale of up to 56,709 shares of PAR common stock, provided those proceeds are anticipated to be substantially in excess of $540,000. Alternatively, PAR's payment could be limited to $540,000 in cash, which would be raised through borrowings or other methods of finance.

The Stock Purchase Agreement and related documents further contemplate the establishment of a plan for the possible eventual issue, under certain circumstances, of up to an additional 115,000 shares of PAR common stock to the holders of the remaining 5% interest in PMSC during the period commencing January 1, 1974 and ending December 31, 1978. Formal closing under the Stock Purchase Agreement is expected to occur early in 1972.

PMSC was established here to utilize newly-developed technology in the field of hydrostatic metal forming. PMSC has entered into cross-licensing agreements with Western Electric Company in the hydrostatic metal forming field, and, under a non-exclusive license in the Western Electric patents, intends to manufacture and sell specialty metal products and high pressure extrusion machines.

Roderick J. Place, President of PMSC, will continue in that capacity. Jack D. Stewart, Sr. and Anthony C. Keathley have recently joined Systems Metals Corp. as Vice President Operations and Vice President Engineering, respectively. Mr. Stewart was most recently Manager of Precision Parts Operations for Standard Pressed Steel Corporation in Jenkintown, Pa., and Mr. Keathley was previously Engineering Manager for the Solid Rocket Division of Rocketdyne Corp.

PAR is a Princeton firm manufacturing scientific instruments, with annual sales in excess of $5 million.

Price Lists Essential

New Jersey IRS District Director Roland H. Nash, Jr. has reminded merchants that they are required to maintain a list of ceiling prices charged during the 30-day period ending August 14, 1971. Chain stores must have lists at each store location.

Merchants must make the ceiling price of any item available to any customer requesting it. If a seller does not produce requested records, the customer should present evidence of the alleged violation to any IRS office and file a complaint. The IRS makes prompt investigation of all complaints.

3 FIRMS HERE CITED

For Architectural Design. Three Princeton architectural firms are among 12 throughout New Jersey to be cited for outstanding design achievement at the annual convention of the New Jersey Society of Architects held earlier this month. The winning designs were chosen from among 75 entries.

Holt & Morgan received its citation for the reconstruction and addition to "Spring Grove", reportedly the oldest house in Lawrenceville. Badly damaged by fire in 1967, the house has been restored close to its original appearance, and the contemporary addition, while using similar materials and forms to complement the old, emerges as a significantly different element.

John Brearly built the original building about 1700 and his grandson, General Joseph Brearly, made an addition in 1785. The present owners are Mr. and Mrs. Michel L. Balinski. The reconstruction work and addition were done by Secoulish - Bregenzer - Hall of Hopewell.

Also cited were UNIPLAN, for East Orange Middle School, and J. Robert Hillier, for Mr. Hillier's residence on Ridgeview Circle.

SURVEY DIRECTOR NAMED

At Opinion Research. Sandra M. Spies has been promoted to the position of survey director at Opinion Research Corporation. In her new role, Mrs. Spies will be responsible for directing all phases of research involving financial relations, marketing evaluation, and press and public relations.

Prior to her promotion, Mrs. Spies held the position of associate survey director. Since joining ORC in 1968, she has served as librarian/research assistant, and assistant survey director.

Mrs. Spies received her B.A. degree, magna cum laude, in American history from Newton College of the Sacred Heart in Newton, Mass. She resides with her husband at 40 Lake Lane.

POWER BLOCS BLAMED

For Economic Woes. "Cocky labor and business" power blocs are blamed for the nation's inflation problems by Dr. Paul Nadler, Rutgers University economics professor, author and consultant. Dr. Nadler's remarks were made in a speech last week before 200 Princeton area businessmen attending a luncheon as guests of the First National Bank at the Treadway Inn on Route 1.

The Penn-Central collapse, Dr. Nadler said, scared borrowers and lenders and made consumers afraid to spend. Meanwhile, labor and business were demanding more and more. "It's like the unions saying, 'We won't be satisfied until we're all getting higher than the average union wage,'" Dr. Nadler quipped.

"And then, on August 15, President Nixon shoots us right between the eyes," Dr. Nadler told the businessmen. It was exciting to see something done with the economy, he said, but "no Democrat could have done it — he would have been lynched."

On the international economic scene, Dr. Nadler said, he is optimistic that conditions will stabilize eventually. He also is optimistic that the nation's unemployment problems will be resolved in the forseeable future. But he's "not too optimistic" about the control of inflation.

Alternative Approach. There are two ways of curbing inflation, he said: creating a competitive market situation, or government intervention. "If we can get back to the competitive system of business that the U.S. economy was built upon . . . . if we can get over our security from change . . . then my optimism (for seeing an end to inflationary trends) would be greater."

Overall, Dr. Nadler told the luncheon audience, the domestic economy seems to be "turning up." He reminded the audience that 10 years of influence by labor and business power blocks can't be solved in one, 20-minute speech such as President Nixon delivered on August 15.

News Of The CHURCHES

COMMITTEE REPORTS

On Interfaith Work. Princeton Interfaith Council held its semi-annual meeting last week in Pierce Hall of Trinity Church, with committee reports the main items on the agenda. Nicholas Van Dyke presided.

A budget of $1,458 was approved for the period October 1, 1971 to May 31, 1972. Eleven hundred dollars was assigned to the three PIC committees for programming; the balance is earmarked for communications with the member congregations and for administrative needs. The October 1 balance on hand is $463.83.

The Committee on Worship, chaired by Charles P. Henderson, announced plans for an interfaith service on Thanksgiving Day in Princeton University. The group also endorsed a projected performance of Keith Rhodes' Lenten Mass, to be sung by members of the Columbia Boychoir and Westminster Choir.

A "Mass Media Ministries" film workshop is being planned by the committee for the fall and, in the spring, a workshop on contemporary worship is planned.

The Committee on Education, chaired by W. Wesley Walton, is working on an adult study course and plans to have church school classes exchange among the elementary school children. The first interfaith project for the high school age was held on Saturday at the Princeton-Jewish Center.

The education committee noted that Mrs. Frederick Laschever is planning an interfaith exhibit at the John Witherspoon School during the first three weeks in December. The aim is to increase understanding. She is seeking robes, artifacts and symbols of the Jewish, Christian, Buddhist, and Hindu faiths.

Community Concerns Committee, led by Philip Carchman, stated its continuing interest in the now-closed OK Bar on Leigh Avenue, in the event that the owners take the case to court. Members are invited to worship with the First Presbyterian Church congregation in November when Princeton High School Principal Patricia Wertheimer will speak.

A representative of Flight Two asked the member churches to provide meeting places for the young adults it serves. It requested the support of church youth in its activities and church held with fund raising.

John Jackson suggested to the delegates that the churches in the center of Princeton provide bicycle racks to encourage bikes rather than autos in the area.

The next meeting of the Princeton Interfaith Council will be on May 3, 1972 in Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church.

LAYMEN's SUNDAY SET

At St. Andrew's. Elder Paul L. Reiber will preach on Sunday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The 10 a.m. service marks Laymen's Sunday. His sermon title is "The Secular Christian."

Elder Arthur B. Coe will read the scripture and the responsive reading by the congregation will be led by Elder Mrs. Arthur B. Coe. Child care and church school classes through grade 4 are held at 10. Upper grades and adults will meet from 11 until noon.

TO HEAR ANDRE DUMAS

At Princeton Seminary. A leader of the Reformed Church of France, Andre Dumas, will lecture at Princeton Seminary on Monday, October 25, at 7:45 p.m. in Miller Chapel. His address is titled, "Images of Man's Future: Technological and Theological."

Dr. Dumas, since 1961 professor of philosophy and ethics at the Protestant Faculty of Theology in Paris, is also co-director of the weekly newspaper, Reforme, and author of "Dietrich Bonhoeffer: Theologian of Reality," which appeared in English translations this September.

During World War II, Professor Dumas was a member of the CIMADE team, working in refugee camps in southern France. He is former general secretary to the French Student Christian Movement. A noted lecturer, he has given major addresses at the 1966 Ecumenical Conference on Church and Society in Geneva, the 1968 World Council Assembly in Upsala, the Seminar of Catholic Intellectuals and the Seminar on Marxist Thought.

TO GIVE RECITAL

At Mt. Pisgah. Mrs. Bernadette Wright of Laurel, Md., will give a musical recital at 6 p.m. on Sunday, October 31, at Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church. The Sunday School department is sponsor.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Merion Brown, 924-3236. Donation is $2.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Village Fair in Cranbury, sponsored by the WSCS of Cranbury United Methodist Church, will be held from 10 until 6 on Friday, October 22. Offerings include a Christmas boutique, a Bake Shelf, a Sweet and Sour booth, a Flower Cart, Kiddie Korner, and a Trash 'n Treasure table. Luncheon will be served, beginning at 11.

A rummage sale of children's clothes will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday at the Morning Star Church of God in Christ; 43½ Birch Avenue. Further donations will be welcomed.

Southern fried chicken and barbecue spare ribs dinners will be served at the church from noon until 7 p.m. Donation is $2. Take-out orders are available, and pies will be made to order. The number to call is 924-5478 or 924-9544.

The Morning Star choir, under direction of Alex Guidry, will be featured at the 12:30 p.m. service on Sunday. The pastor, Elder C. Guidry, will preach.

"The Box with Freedom In It" is the title of the sermon to be given by the Rev. Robert L. Cope at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services on Sunday in Unitarian Church of Princeton.

R. Wayne Wever will be ordained to the ministry this Sunday at the 7:30 p.m. service in Westerly Road Church.

REV. DR. JOHN R. BODO, pastor of First Presbyterian Church from 1951 to 1959, preaches at 11 this Sunday in Princeton University Chapel. Now minister of Old First Presbyterian Church, San Francisco, Dr. Bodo, a native of Budapest, was educated at the University of Geneva and Union Theological Seminary, New York. He holds a master of theology degree and doctor of theology degree cum laude from Princeton Seminary.

Use your imagination and steal a house! The rooms — including 5 bedrooms and 3½ baths — in this sunny Colonial are plentiful and large to boot. The living and dining rooms are quite attractive; the family room and eat-in kitchen, superb. The house has everything it takes for a large family to function separately or together, even to a good run for its canine members. The only drawback is an external one. Frankly new enough to need more plantings, the property should increase in value far more than the cost of landscaping it should have. A perspicacious, imaginative buyer might well almost "steal" the house by offering on the already fair price of $69,500

The charm of the period — ups and downs, twists and turns — is quite evident as you enter the front hall of this enlarged 1840'ish house. The pretty living room with its brick fireplace wall, the airy master bedroom with its three-way exposure, and the handsome, cherry-paneled playroom are all nice-sized. The dining room, den, kitchen and two additional bedrooms are smallish but perfectly adequate for the smallish family the house is right for. More than adequate are the 2½ baths and the laundry-workshop-utility-storage areas in the bone dry basement. Most adequate is the feeling of warmth and friendliness that pervades the house! Four rustic, sloping acres with enormous trees, pleasant informal landscaping and fine flagstone terrace match the appeal of the house. $79,000

WHEN AUTUMN LEAVES BEGIN TO FALL

The long, cold winter looms just ahead. This year, wouldn't you like to have lots more room for the family to spread out in? A separate bedroom for each child, a huge comfortable kitchen where no one gets under foot, a wonderful room for pool, ping-pong and relaxing, a nice, warm attic with lots of nooks and crannies for rainy afternoons — all would make a dreary February more bearable. This is the most house (without being unmanageable) that we can offer you at a price of $125,000

HIT THE DECK IN PRINCETON'S RIVERSIDE!

Through a wide wall of glass, this deck is perfectly situated to take full advantage of the lush privacy of a beautiful back garden. On the other side of that window-wall, a spectacular big living room with fireplace, polished dark oak floor, high ceiling and dramatic museum lighting . . . the sort of room you might not find even in a house at twice the price. The rest of the house, all most liveable and in perfect order, includes: cozy sitting-dining room with fireplace, modern eat-in kitchen, family room with adjoining lavatory, 4 bedrooms and 2 full baths. Basement and garage. Available instantly at $69,500

LARGE ONE STORY HOUSE — WESTERN TOWNSHIP

On an artistically landscaped 3/4 acre with sheltered terrace by the side of a meandering, rock-edged brook. What a spot for retirement! Among the rooms big enough to take all your beloved furniture are: large living-dining room with fireplace, country kitchen, 3 double bedrooms and a bright, airy studio (with second fireplace) in which to spend that new found leisure. If you're fortunate enough, there's even a small maid's room and bath. Two car garage. All recently, and most attractively, redone. $83,500

TWO YEARS NEW

And eminently suitable for you and your young family, this handsome 4 bedroom, 2½ bath Colonial is situated on a lovely, wooded 3/4 acre in one of West Windsor's most desirable and convenient locations. Formal living and dining rooms, large paneled den with fireplace and sliding glass doors to a shady terrace. Marvelous kitchen with room enough for a big, sociable table. Ground floor laundry. Central air-conditioning. Just waiting for you to move in. $67,500

Maybe someday all cars will be built like the Citroen.

Maybe someday.

Maybe it depends on you.

When you demand a car, for example, that would ride like a Rolls but costs like a Chevy. One that would take curves like a Maserati but seats a five full passengers. A car that would be in every sense a luxury car—yet burns gas like a tiny Volkswagen (27 MPG).

Maybe you could get that kind of car from Detroit if you demanded it. Or you could buy one right now. It's called a Citroen. Just go to your nearest Citroen dealer and test drive it.

Learn how good other cars may someday be; and how someday is today with a Citroen.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE

To find a big house suitable for all your family needs. Five bedrooms, 2 on first floor with full bath — 3 on second floor with two more baths. Living room, separate dining room, family room with fireplace. A covered rear porch, fenced swimming pool surrounded by terrace. Central air conditioning plus many other extras. Located in Rocky Hill in a nice community for kids. The fishing is near by and bicycle riding along the Canal is fun for the whole family. $64,000

HAVE YOU ALWAYS DREAMED OF AN ESTATE?

Well, we have one on 6 gorgeous acres bordering Princeton at a price you can afford. Nestled in a park-like setting you'll find a Colonial with irresistible amenities. A kitchen right out of a magazine with real Italian tile floors, center cooking aisle, eating space overlooking the formal garden or a separate dining room with glass walls on two sides. A brick patio for informal dining leads to a magnificent swimming pool. Living room has handsome fireplace, library with built-in shelves which could double as a guest room because there's a full bath. Second floor has 3 more bedrooms, 2 baths plus a separate bedroom and bath over the garage area — a haven for a teenager. A huge finished basement playroom with fireplace (and a bath) is super for parties. Now, use your imagination for the grand finale! The architect-owner designed an addition that is magnificent, but not completed. We have costs plus working drawings and it's not that difficult to finish. The end result is a dream come true. Offered at $98,000

Late last winter we ran the following ad which elicited considerable interest — for good reason! However, eager buyers and less eager sellers could not get together. Things have changed. The house on slightly less land (now approximately 13¼ acres) has been reduced from $250,000 to an almost unbelievable $175,000. You can believe it won't be available by the time snow falls on it again!

132 ELM ROAD. If you don't know this quite special Princeton property, go look at it; if you can resist getting to know it better, we'll be most surprised. We'll also be delighted to introduce you if you are in the need of a gracious, roomy town estate which has, for a sporting family, the added attractions of tennis and squash courts, swimming pool and three nice acres.
